MISS MINTER TO QUIT FILMS AND WED

MARY MILES MINTER

Here's Mary Miles Minter as she appeared in "The Heart Specialist." Now she will play that role in real life; that is, if a certain playwright gets a divorce. When Mary weds she will become the stepmother of three children, thereby appearing in a role that isn't seen on the screen.

Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—Mary Miles Minter, whose contract with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation recently expired, has announced that she is through with motion pictures, according to the Los Angeles Times today.

Miss Minter said she planned to go East to buy a country home at Westchester, N. Y., study music, return to the stage, and perhaps to marry, the paper said. She intimated she would marry Louis Sherwin, playwright and scenarist, when he obtained a divorce from his wife, who is living at Oyster Bay, N. Y., with their three children.

Miss Minter and the interviewer went together to Sherwin's home here, where Sherwin stated he hoped to marry Miss Minter as soon as legally possible, said the news story. He said he planned to file an action against Mrs. Sherwin, from whom he has been separated since 1914, according to the Times.

POLICE SEIZE BIG STILL IN ALLSTON

Brighton police are investigating the ownership of a hundred gallon still and a quantity of liquor found in the attic of a house on North Harvard street, near Cambridge street, Allston, when Sergeants Herchant and Murphy raided the place.

The house is owned by James Hart, a former policeman who lives on the ground floor. Mrs. Rachael Davis, a widow, and her four children occupy the floor above. According to the Brighton police, Hart, Mrs. Davis and a man named Sheehan, employed by Mrs. Davis, all tell conflicting stories.

Hart, who is now in the plumbing business, was implicated in the Middlesex automobile thief gang, whose activities were bared by the confession of Herman L. Barney. Hart was arrested in 1920 and later sentenced to two years in Cambridge House of Correction, after he had pleaded guilty to receiving stolen automobiles.

According to one of the stories told the police, Sheehan had been in the habit of making nightly trips to South Boston in an automobile which is said to be registered jointly in his and Mrs. Davis' names.

The layout in the attic consisted of the still, about fifty gallons of alcohol, twenty-one gallons of manufactured whiskey and 200 gallons of mash.

CHILD BRIDE CAPTIVE, YOUTH TRIES SUICIDE

Hartford, Ct., Jan. 25.—Despondent because his sixteen-year-old bride of one day had been locked up by her stepfather, who refused to allow him to interview her, Chester Papineau, twenty-two years old, attempted to commit suicide by strangling at his home. He was found in a semi-conscious condition by his mother.

He had been married to Miss Mildred Blackburn by a justice of the peace Tuesday, and the bride was shut up by her stepfather when she went to her home to dress in preparation for her honeymoon.

AUTOS IN NEW YORK DOUBLE IN 4 YEARS

New York, Jan. 25.—The number of motor vehicles on the streets of New York has nearly doubled in the last four years, which in part explains increasing traffic congestion, according to the following tabulation obtained from the Motor Vehicle Bureau at Albany for the four years ending December 31, 1922. The total for 1922 is 311,502, as against 185,216 in 1919 and 268,900 in 1921. Last year's increase was nearly 50,000, as compared with a yearly average of about 40,000.

30 MILLION BARRELS OF OIL COMING EAST

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, Jan. 25.—Fifty tankers have gone into the coast-to-coast trade since the first of the year, carrying fuel oil in large quantities from the Pacific Coast. Most of the vessels have each a 75,000-barrel capacity, so that their deliveries from the West may aggregate 30,000,000 barrels this year, as each ship can make eight trips, it was estimated.

POLICEMAN ACCUSED OF ATTACK

East Boston Merchant Charges He Was Dragged From His Home and Beaten

Charges that he was beaten, dragged from his house and arrested without cause have been filed with Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson by Serop Goshgarian, merchant, living at No. 172 Princeton street, East Boston.

Patrolman Francis Burke of the East Boston Station is under investigation in connection with the charge.

The complaint by Goshgarian is that he had closed his store on New Year's Eve and was near his home on Princeton street.

Burke lives at No. 168 Princeton street, next door but one to Goshgarian. Boys were ringing doorbells and knocking on windows and some knocked on the windows of the patrolman's house.

Burke appeared, according to Goshgarian, and accused him. Then the policeman beat him up, he says.

Goshgarian went home and Burke telephoned to the East Boston police station. A policeman was sent down and Burke asked his brother officer to arrest Goshgarian on a charge of being drunk, Goshgarian alleges.

The second policeman refused to do this, so Burke dragged Goshgarian out of the house and took him to the police station. Goshgarian declares he was not drunk.

LEARNS TO DRUM SO HE CAN HEAD UNION

New York, Jan. 25.—F. Paul A. Vaccarelli, called labor's fighting change artist, switched jobs again today from head of the Longshoremen's Union to business agent of the Musical Mutual Protective Union. In order to qualify he had to be able to play a musical instrument, so he learned to play a drum in record time.

An announcement from the union said he could lead a ship, rule monitor, carry a hod, plaster and lay bricks.

DIVORCEE IN DEATH MYSTERY

Typist's Body Found In Huntington Avenue Apartment House

An autopsy today is expected to reveal the cause of the mysterious death of Mrs. Genevieve Crowley, Roxbury divorcee, whose body was found in her apartment at No. 505 Huntington avenue.

Her face was buried in a pillow and death might have been due to suffocation. There were bloodstains on the pillow.

The police believe she died a natural death, but the medical examiner ordered the body to the Northern Mortuary for an autopsy.

Mrs. Crowley had occupied the apartment for some time and was employed as a stenographer by James H. Roff of No. 101 Devonshire street.

On Monday she notified her employer that she was ill and wouldn't report for work. Nothing more was heard from her.

Yesterday William J. McManus, a gas inspector, went to Mrs. Crowley's apartment to collect the gas meter money, but he was unable to gain admittance. He notified the janitor and the latter opened the door. Both men entered and discovered the body.

GIRL FAILS TO PRESS GEM THEFT CHARGE

Failure of June Reynolds, former Back Bay, to appear against Joseph Dillon of Ashford street, Allston, caused the dismissal of the charge of larceny against him in Roxbury Court today.

Miss Reynolds declared she gave Dillon a valuable cameo pin, for the purpose of having it sold to a dealer in antiques. Neither the money nor the pin was returned, she claimed.

K. C. GIVES $50,000 TO AID SICK VETS

Indianapolis, Jan. 25.—American Legion national headquarters announced today that the Knights of Columbus has set aside a fund of $50,000 for the relief of thousands of tubercular former service men, who have migrated to the Southwest and who at present are in destitute circumstances. The fund, which was authorized following a recent joint survey by the two organizations, will be administered by the Legion, it was said.

Clash With Rioters At Coblenz

Coblenz, Jan. 25.—(By International News Service)—Violent rioting broke here following the departure of the American Army of Occupation. It was quelled today by a handful of American military police who were left behind with the "clean-up squad."

The disorders began last night when a crowd attacked and wrecked the offices of the Rheinische Warte, a newspaper that is advocating separation of the Rhineland from Germany. This mob consisted of about 2,000 Germans, but it was dispersed by Americans, about a score in number.

Feeling was running high today, and another mob made up of anti-Secessionists and anti-French swarmed throughout the streets. Although it numbered about 10,000, the "Doughboy" policemen soon scattered it.

The Germans sang patriotic songs and howled epithets at the departists and the French. Although French sollers were stationed here, none was seen upon the streets. They were kept in their barracks and billets.

All Ruhr Railroads Tied Up by Strike Against Invaders

Dusseldorf, Jan. 25. (By the Associated Press).—Virtually the entire railway system of the Ruhr Valley and the occupied territory immediately adjoining was paralyzed today by a strike of the railway men.

The main rail lines on both the right and left banks of the Rhine are tied up along a stretch of nearly fifty miles, between Wesel, to the north of Dusseldorf, and Cologne, south of this city.

The Paris-Berlin and Warsaw-Paris expresses are stalled in the Dusseldorf station. Two trains of foodstuffs from Holland represented the only movement by rail into the interior of the Ruhr.

WIREMEN TO STRIKE.

In addition, the telegraph and telephone employees of the postal service informed General Denvignes today that the operators would strike midnight. The French commander replied with a threat that the leaders would be sent to jail.

The mobile crew of telegraphers which customarily follows President Millerand on his official tours has arrived in Dusseldorf ready to take over the service in the event of a strike.

"France is here to stay until she gets complete satisfaction from Germany," said M. Le Troquer, minister of public works, upon arriving here from Paris this morning.

General Weygand, Marshal Foch's chief of staff, who accompanied the minister, immediately went into conference with General Degoutte to consider the application of sterner military measures.

The measures were to be considered in view of a "lengthy occupation of the Ruhr," it was said.

"If Germany thinks her policy of resistance and sabotage will make France deviate one jot from her resolution to bring the German government to terms and collect reparations she is sadly mistaken," said M. Le Troquer. "France is here to stay until she gets complete satisfaction from Germany.

There can be no desire on our part to retreat. If Germany can stand this situation, created by herself, we likewise can."

That France contemplates immediate steps to strengthen her hand in the occupied area is seen in announcement that 3,750 railway men have been sent to the Ruhr "for a period of instruction of limited duration."

It is expected other technical groups will be utilized when General Weygand and the minister of public works have looked the ground over.

Japs Building Up Navy to Surpass U. S.

(Copyright, 1923, by International News Service.)

Washington, Jan. 25.—Keeping strictly within the bounds of the naval treaty signed at the Washington Conference a year ago, Japan is building up her navy to a point where, unless the United States keeps space, the 5-5-3 ratio of naval strength will be virtually nullified in a few years and Japan will have the most modern and efficient sea fighting force extant.

This, it was learned today, is the reason underlying President Harding's request to Congress for additional funds to "modernize" the

ONE KILLED IN CRASH OF MILL

Thirty Other Workers Have Narrow Escapes In Mishap In Lawrence

Lawrence, Jan. 25.—One man was killed and thirty others narrowly escaped death today when a section of wall of the Champion International Paper Mill fell.

The body of the victim, Peter Florilla, thirty-six, of No. 199 Haverhill street, was found hours later after a feverish search by the 300 employes at work when the crash came.

For some unknown reason no one notified the police, and it was not until more than four hours after the collapse that they arrived on the scene to direct the rescue work and start a probe.

Between thirty and forty men were at work in the beeder room, several noticed Florilla, who is the father of three children, start down a stairway, and then heard a crunching noise.

Then came the crash. The workers fled. Panic spread through the mill and the employes ran to the street.

A foreman called the roll of the

ANOTHER NEWPORT VICTIM

"Skull Crusher" Leaps From Behind Rock in Sixth Attack

Newport, R. I., Jan. 25.—The fact that the "skull-crusher" had claimed another victim—his sixth—was disclosed today. This victim was a butler employed in the millionaire's colony.

As happened to J. A. Fraser McLeish and his wife, both dead, and to Miss Isabel Lattimer, whose life was saved, this victim was felled by a blow on the head.

He was attacked while walking from Truro Beach, within a week of the time Miss Lattimer was found with blood streaming from her head in bed.

Hours later, the butler recovered sensibility and half-crawled to his apartment in the mansion of a Newport money king. His wound was not fatal.

The news of this attack, the sixth, the outbreak of another incendiary fire, also the sixth, is considered extremely significant by the large company of detectives, private and official, who are working to run down the slayer of the gardener and his wife.

No theory that McLeish killed his

BELIEVE $10,000 PEABODY FIRE INCENDIARY

Peabody, Jan. 25.—Chief Jesse Barrett of the fire department this afternoon asked State Fire Marshal Neal to investigate a $10,000 fire here in the Public Market Building today that drove five families to the street. He believes the blaze was set. Among those who were in the burning block was Mrs. Sogolunt, who was ill and was assisted from a second floor apartment.

HALF MILLION LOSS IN 2 CHICAGO FIRES

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Two big fires did damage estimated at more than half a million dollars to industrial plants here today. One blaze wrecked the greater part of the plant of the American Linseed Oil Company, menacing a large elevator. Loss was placed at between $200,000 and $300,000. The other fire caused $150,000 damage to a six-story building on the West Side.

FAIRBANKS' BROTHER IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—John Fairbanks, brother to Douglas Fairbanks, motion picture actor and general manager of the Douglas Fairbanks Picture Corporation, is seriously ill at his home here. Physicians said he was suffering from a nervous collapse brought about by overwork and that paralysis has resulted. He is unable to move or speak.

wife and slew himself will stand the test of facts.

Shell-shocked or normal, no man, say medical authorities and dismissionate observers today, could have committed self-slaughter in the wise McLeish way of death. Dr. Charles W. Stewart, associate medical examiner who performed autopsies on the McLeishes, reiterates his assertion that a third party killed the gardener and his wife.

Dr. Stewart was questioned relative to the murder-suicide theory propounded by some when the police finally made it known that blood-matted hair adhered to the radiator in the McLeish bedroom.

"It is possible," Dr. Stewart declared. "Anything is possible. In my estimation, however, if a man had stood on the ceiling of that room and dashed himself head foremost on the radiator, he could not have smashed his skull in the manner Fraser, McLeish's sleuth was wounded. No, I cannot accept the murder-suicide theory.

Investigators today incline far away from the theory that McLeish heinously slew his wife and gored himself bull-like to death against a heater.

SERIES OF FIRES.

These investigators are wondering whether the significance is more than coincidence that Newport's air attacks on servants have been unscrambled simultaneously with the history of five and five outbreak of a sixth incendiary fire.

The loudest cottage, two stories and a half, of Frank Ellis, a Newporter now residing downtown, was burned to the ground. The cottage stood in Middleton, just across the city line. Police and firemen rushed to the scene in fear that the "skull crusher" had left another bleeding head before he fired the house of a crime. No bodies stared from the ruins, but the cottage was ruined.

FIRE FROM AMBUSH.

It became known today that bullets were fired from ambush in the Newport-Providence road. Cornelius Moore, one of Newport's most prominent lawyers, was speeding toward Providence when he thought he heard the report of a blow-out. He got out of the car and found his tires inflated. He proceeded, but had travelled only a few yards when another report was heard. This time he ducked involuntarily and was positive that bullets were being employed.

The next day, upon examining his car, he discovered that a bullet had flattened against his rear mudguard.

Mr. Moore says, in his opinion, the persons guilty of firing those shots were boys. They were fired, however, in Ocean Grove road, in the section exclusively occupied by millionaires.

To be exact, the shots were fired on the outskirts of the estate of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, New York's social queen. Scions of that family tree or their money ennobled playmates seldom escape the attention of tutors and governesses sufficiently long to procure rifles and take pot-shots at autoists.

In October, a stable on the estate "The Wyndham," owned by Ross Grosvenor, was fired. It was destroyed and the coachman and his family, occupying quarters in the stable, barely escaped with their lives. September 17, on the estate "Spouting Rock," owned by Benjamin Lewis, the famous financier, a set fire destroyed a studio. There were no casualties.

Six and six—stands the count! Will it read yet seven and seven? Newport is filled with dread.

U. S. Bill Against Berlin for Army $255,000,000

Washington, Jan. 25.—The bill of the United States against Germany for the American army of occupation from December 18, 1918, until the evacuation order of January 10 is more than $255,000,000.

The gross charges to July 31, 1922, were $291,336,717. Credits allowed to date are $36,554,999, and the balance due July 31 last was $254,881,717.

The cost since then of maintaining the reduced force has been about $500,000, which leaves more than $255,000,000 to be collected.

American fleet. It also accounts for the recent request to President Harding to call another arms conference to restrict aircraft and auxiliary naval vessels on the ground that "competition is on again."

Japan is keeping to the letter of the Washington Treaty by building no capital ships. But her revised auxiliary program is designed to convert her navy from a "defensive" establishment to an "offensive" establishment within a few years through addition of swift cruisers, tankers and scouting submarines.

French Seize Command of German Police

Mayence, Jan. 25 (By the Associated Press).—General Mareschal, commanding the French post here, today issued a proclamation, declaring all local German police under the authority of the French military because the authorities failed to repress the demonstration yesterday that followed the conviction of the German mine directors.

General Mareschal informed the population he was determined to keep order at all costs and that the French troops had received orders to use their weapons to put down any attempts to disturb order.

Trotzky and Lenin Shun War Talk

Moscow, Jan. 25 (By the Associated Press).—The Russian press continues to warn that Russia might be drawn into a European war if Poland attacked Germany.

However, M. Trotzky, after a week in the country, returned and plunged into internal rather than international affairs. He took time for an English lesson and did not inspect the troops as gossips declared.

Premier Lenin, in an article published by Isvestia, does not mention the Ruhr situation, addressing himself only to problems of domestic re

S. S. America to Bring Rest of Rhine Troops

The War Department has advised Major-General Allen at Coblenz that the shipping board steamer American will sail from Antwerp February 7, and can carry all personnel of the returning Rhineland army not sent home on the transport St. Mihiel. The department does not know when General Allen himself will return, although it is thought possible he will come on the America.

PLAN BIG WELCOME FOR U. S. TROOPS

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—Savannah is planning a great welcome for the American soldiers of the Rhine Army of Occupation, expected to arrive at the Georgia port about February 7, according to a telegram received by Governor Hardwick from Paul E. Seabrook, Mayor of Savannah. The message requested the Chief Executive to take part and Governor Hardwick indicated he would accept.

TERMINAL PLAN HALTED BY GOV.

Mayor Curley's proposal to build a great railroad terminal will not "at this time" result in calling a conference of Boston business men and railroad executives, according to Governor Cox. The Mayor had asked the chief executive of the State to take this action to consider the Mayor's plan for improving the transportation facilities of the metropolitan district. The project is thus made officially "off" for the present.

WOOD TO PASS ON RUSSIANS' STATUS

Manila, Jan. 25. (By Associated Press).—Admiral Stark, Soviet leader of Vladivostok, arrived at Marivilles quarantine station today with five ships of his fleet of Russian refugees. Five other vessels of the homeless flotilla are expected to arrive in a few days from China. Governor-General Leonard Wood will visit the Russians with a view of determining what is to be done with them.

FIND STOWAWAY BRIDES AS U. S. TROOPS SAIL

Antwerp, Jan. 25. (By the Associated Press).—Practically the last of the American troops who went to the aid of the Allies in the World War arrived in Antwerp today and boarded the transport St. Mihiel for their homeward voyage. These included all by a small "clean-up squad" left in Coblenz.

The men, largely of the Eighth Infantry, were transferred from special trains directly to the vessel. Her first stop will be at Savannah, Ga. Only two men were absent without leave. Three missed their train.

It is still possible for them to catch the St. Mihiel by regular trains, as the hour of weighing anchor may be delayed if Major-General Allen grants a request to give time for unloading quartermasters' supplies to make room for the officers' baggage.

FIN DSAOWAWAY BRIDES.

One of the first incidents on the program was the discovery at the pier during the checking up process of a half-dozen stowaway German wives, whose soldier-husbands had not "declared" them at Coblenz, and officers were set at work scouting for further unregistered women.

The wives of the soldiers occupy quarters on the second after deck, while the men are bunked forward.

Colonel Walter T. Bates, Commander of the Eight Infantry, visited Antwerp City Hall with the American Consul to thank the Burgomaster, Dr. Franz van Cauwelaert, for his efforts to facilitate the embarkment, and the Burgomaster paid the Colonel a return visit on board the St. Mihiel.

CHEERED BY BILGIANS.

Colonel Bates also called on General Cabra, Governor of Antwerp, who recalled feelingly the comradeship between the American and Belgian troops.

An indication of the Belgian popular sentiment toward the troops was given at the pier, where a crowd of early risers cheered lustily as the troops filed aboard the vessel.

FLAYS KLAN AS PROBE ENDS IN LOUISIANA

By Associated Press.

Bastrop, La., Jan. 25.—The Ku Klux Klan was charged with responsibility for numerous outrages in Morehouse Parish in a statement today by A. V. Coco, Attorney-General of Louisiana on the conclusion of the open hearing into activities of masked bands, which culminated August 24 in the kidnaping of Watt Daniel and T. F. Richard, whose bodies were found in Lake La Fourche on December 23.

The evidence will later be laid before the Grand Jury.

The Attorney-General declared that since the advent of the Klan in the parish there had arisen "a condition of disorder and lawlessness, which has ripened into a suppression of constituted authorities by the K. K. K. and the establishment of a government of its own."

The Parish, he added, "was on the brink of riot and bloodshed," when Governor Parker sent troops here and initiated the investigation.

Mr. Coco declared that while it might be conceded many Klansmen did not actually participate in actions of lawlessness, "they nevertheless may be deemed responsible therefor by reason of their silence and inaction."

Those offenses and crimes were committed in the name of the order, under the protection of its regalia and in the use of its recognized methods and practices, and under the leadership of its officers, the principal of which has, for the last six months at least, brought about a condition in this Parish which is a blot upon our civilization and brings into question the proud title of American citizenship.

"The flogging of citizens, their deportation and banishment and other kindred offenses were but mere pastimes and of such frequent occurrence that they were accepted as common-place things, the protest against which was itself sufficient ground for deportation.

Germans, Defeated, Thank America, the Winner

Washington, Jan. 25.—The German government has officially expressed its gratitude and appreciation for the "correct conduct" of America's occupational forces on the Rhine.

Diplomatic authorities said it was one of the few instances in history where a defeated nation has "thanked" a former enemy for the good conduct of occupational forces.

The appreciation of the German government was conveyed by Ambassador Wiedfeldt.

men in the header room. All but Forallia responded.

Four hours later Captain Thomas R. Vose of the police department took charge and the body was located.

The section of wall that fell is about fifteen feet across and stood between fifteen and twenty feet in height. It was on the northwestern side of the factory.

Building Inspector Timothy Callahan immediately started an investigation. So, too, did Medical Examiner Victor Reed.

After examination Marshal Timothy O'Brien and Lieutenant Inspector Joseph Mulhare decided that the collapse had been due to the tremendous weight and pressure in ten huge vats stored in the header room and the basement below.

This, they say, eventually caused the wall of the room to buckle outward against the wall of the factory and then both fell inwardly. The building inspector appears to agree with this view and he has completely exonerated the owners.

These vats are filled with thousands of gallons of pulp mixture, and in order to function there must be applied a tremendous amount of pressure. Five of these were below and five were above. The dead man was a vat tender.

Florilla had planned to quit his job Saturday night, for he had arranged to join his wife and four children in Italy. He intended to sail February 1.

Copr. Int. 1923, Star Co.

AMERICAN FLAG was lled down yesterday on rman soil. The soldiers started for home. The French tricolor went up in place of the Stars and Stripes. That ends one chapter.

The place for American troops is here in America, between the two oceans, where Americans live and where their business is. If we must go fighting and spending in Europe, then we must. But unless we really must, it's better to stay at home.

MRS. MAE ELLA NOLAN goes to Washington soon, taking along her little girl, eight years old. She is going to a seat in Congress, to which the city of San Francisco has just elected her, preferring her to all of the men that ran against her and giving her 3,400 votes more than were cast for the man nearest to her.

MRS. NOLAN, elected to succeed her husband as Representative of the Fifth California District, is especially interesting because her husband was a labor leader in Congress, a rare thing in the United States Congress.

There are three women in Congress now, Mrs Huck, from Illinois, who succeeds her father; Miss Robertson of Oklahoma, and now Mrs. Nolan. No Congressman will deny that the woman member average of intelligence, ability and character is above the congressional average.

THE REV. MR. OWEN arrived from England, reports that heaven is indeserihably complicated. He asked his mother who is in heaven now. All she said was "heaven is earth made perfect."

That would mean many changes. You realize it reading news of the day, when you go to your dentist, or pay your bills, and at other times.

The Reverend Owen says our language couldn't possibly describe heaven. Here we live bound down by three dimensions. In heaven there are no limitations. Four dimensions or more.

The reverend gentleman's subconsciousness made him talk to his mother in heaven. Many things are possible, but many things are doubtful.

VICTORIUS TURKEY, bullying the Allies, declaring herself again mistress of the Dardanelles, learns what the Allies know, that war doesn't pay, even when you win. Financiers in Turkey predict a moratorium, which means stoppage of all debt payments.

Money is withdrawn from Constantinople's banks. Turkey is to learn that the important soldiers today are dollars, that support themselves and bring interest, not two-legged soldiers that have to be fed and paid.

MANY CONSERVATIVE, prosperous Americans delight in Benito Mussolini's seizure of the Italian government by force.

Dr. Butler, head of Columbia University, says we have learned that "there are forms of law that lead to lawlessness. There are forms of lawlessness that lead to law."

HE MEANT that Mussolini's form of lawlessness has led to a better government and better laws.

Quite true, for the moment, but look out. When you encourage one kind of lawlessness you are apt to deal with other kinds later.

MUSSOLINI MAY not keep his head or his power forever. He certainly will not live forever. What then? Will there be another fight, another group, another stealing of power, a government by grabbing, as we have seen it in little republics to the South?

AMERICANS THAT have anything to lose should not become too enthusiastic about any KIND OF REVOLUTION.

Before you praise the Fascisti seizing their Socialistic enemies in Italy, telling them to drink a pint of castor oil or have their brains blown out, remember that a choice of castor oil or pistol

ROSA RAISA IS MARRIED, MAY NOT BE WIFE

RAISA AND RIMINI

The Chicago Civic Opera Company stars, married in Italy, may not be legally wed in Massachusetts, Rimini having been forbidden to wed within a year when he divorced his first wife in Illinois.

Are Rosa Raisa and Giacomo Rimini legally married in the eyes of the law of Massachusetts?

Forbidden by the Illinois courts to marry in that State and then quietly slipping off to Italy where a marriage ceremony was performed, less than three months later, the marital status of Raisa and Rimini, stars of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, is one that members of the company are contrasting with that of Winfred Hudnut and Rodolph Valentino.

When Valentino was divorced from his first wife in California he married the daughter of the New York perfume king in Mexico. But the California courts frowned on such a flagrant disregard of their orders that Valentino must not remarry within a year with the result that the "Sheik" and his new wife decided to live apart until the time was up.

Not so with the two stars of the Chicago company.

BANNED FOR YEAR.

When Giacomo Rimini secured a divorce in Chicago, Judge McGoorty ordered to be written in red ink across the face of the interlocutory decree: "Not to remarry within a period of one year."

It was only a few months later that a cable arrived from Italy announcing the marriage of the famous baritone to the equally famous dramatic soprana, Rosa Raisa. The ceremony is said to have taken place in Naples and shortly afterwards the couple returned to America.

Though Raisa is a naturalized American citizen, Rimini is still a subject of the Italian king and the Italian courts do not recognize the jurisdiction of the courts of any other nation over one of its citizens. Therefore Rimini's Chicago divorce would not be officially recognized in his native land.

DRY CHIEF'S SON SOBER, BACK IN COLLEGE

New York, Jan. 25.—Frederick O. Anderson, son of William H. Anderson, superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, returned today to Wesleyan University, the Methodist institution at Middletown, Ct., promising to "stay on the water wagon."

He may have to go before the student tribunal which recently voted to drive the Demon Rum from Wesleyan.

He was not ordered from college but was withdrawn by his father, according to faculty and student officers. Professor Charles R. Hoover of the faculty is quoted as having said: "Anderson saw the handwriting on the wall and left."

"In line with the policy of enforcing the regulation against drinking recently adopted at Wesleyan University, under which a plan was evolved for the control of the matter by the student body, Frederick O. Anderson, twenty-four, has resigned and returned to his home. It was learned that no action was taken in his case by the faculty or student body. The news of his escapade, however, spread rapidly through the college and it is believed that he resigned because he saw the handwriting on the wall."

According to accounts in student circles young Anderson entered his fraternity house with odor of liquor on his breath. He was told that, in accordance with the student governing rules, his offence would be reported. But his hasty withdrawal from the university avoided any formal action that might have been taken.

TIRED OF TATTOOED ARM; TRAIN SEVERS IT

Newark, N. J., Jan. 25.—Tired of looking at his tattooed arm, James Scanlon, who gave no address, put it on a railroad track and let a freight train cut it off, he told Judge Boettner, in the First Criminal Court. Scanlon, who has been in the City Hospital since December 15, was held in $500 bail, charged with attempted suicide.

RETIRES AS PASTOR AFTER 50 YEARS

New York, Jan. 25.—After half a century in the ministry of the Presbyterian Church, Rev. Dr. John Dixon retired today, his seventy-fifth birthday, from active church work. For twenty-four years he has been associated with the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions. He once occupied a pulpit in Providence, R. I.

CROMWELL DEFENCE PAJAMAS

Wife, Fighting Divorce, Declares She Never Loaned Nightie to Man

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Mrs. Rose Barker Cromwell, thirty-three-year-old wife of the elderly realtor, John Howard Cromwell, tearfully pictured Mrs. Genevieve Mulford, attractive housekeeper, as the female "Iago" who ruined their "happy home."

Going on the stand to refute testimony by Mrs. Mulford in her husband's suit for divorce, Mrs. Cromwell denied charges of "nightie" parties and other nite-a-minute adventures said to have occurred in her Larchmont, N. Y., home while her husband was away.

"Mrs. Mulford ran the house," she said. "She would ask men to call and on certain occasions invited them to stay all night. At such times I always had one of the other women guests sleep with me."

Mrs. Cromwell produced titters in her description of some of the parties. Answering allegations she had been seen in her nightgown in the hall early one morning when men were in the house, she testified:

"ALWAYS WORE PAJAMAS."

"For the last five years I have never worn a nightgown. I always use pajamas."

The spectators smiled again when she pointed to the absurdity of a charge she had lent a pair of black silk pajamas to Irwin Mills, one of the men.

"Mr. Mills is six feet tall and I am short. How could he have put them on?" she asked.

Indignantly she denied that Harry Cohen, film director, stole into her berth as she and Mrs. Mulford were crossing the continent to Los Angeles.

She brought Mrs. Julia R. Kelsey, her landlady in Los Angeles, to testify to the platonic nature of her friendship with Cohen in that city.

While telling how she received word in Los Angeles that her wealthy husband was about to seek a divorce, Mrs. Cromwell broke down and sobbed.

CAUSED HER TO FAINT.

Mrs. Mulford notified her by telephone from New York, she said, and immediately she fainted. Mrs. Kelsey sprang to the phone and finished the conversation, during which Mrs. Mulford advised not to contest the suit.

A contract whereby, it was alleged, Cromwell agreed to give his wife $71,000 and $4,000 counsel fees if she would not fight his divorce action, was then presented in evidence.

"When Oliver (her husband) made this offer I started to cry, saying it was a terrible thing," Mrs. Cromwell wept. "I reminded him of our happy married life. He said it made no difference, and told me he would either marry or adopt Jane (Mrs. Mulford). I told him I would not sell my soul for his money, but would clear my name."

FOUR SEEK JOB AS WEEKS' ASSISTANT

Washington, Jan. 25.—Four candidates are in the field for Assistant Secretary of War to succeed J. Mayhew Wainwright, who retires March 4, to become a Representative in Congress from Pennsylvania. They are: Colonel John R. Delafield of New York City, Representative Thomas S. Crago, of Pennsylvania, General James A. Grain of Seattle, Wash., and General Frank Maloney of Knoxville, Tenn.

CERTAIN TO PASS HOUSE

103 Bay State Legislators Rush to Sign Boston American Petition

A resolution calling upon Congress to declare an embargo against the exportation of coal to any foreign country so long as the serious shortage, with its attendant suffering, exists in this country, will be passed, probably today, by the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

The House Committee on Rules, presided over by Speaker B. Loring Young and including the most influential Democratic and Republican members of the House, voted unanimously to recommend its adoption after a public hearing at which Representative James J. Mellen of Charlestown presented its merits.

Wm. J. Francis

The three important developments of the day, preceding the report of the resolution were:

1—One hundred and three members of the Massachusetts Senate and House of Representatives signed the Boston American's petition to Congress for an immediate embargo against the shipments of coal to foreign countries.

2—The appeal of Representative James J. Mellen of Charlestown that the House adopt a resolution calling for immediate and favorable action on the Rogers embargo bill.

3—Representative John J. Hefferan of Brighton appeared before the same committee and demanded the publication of the names of the coal dealers, brokers and jobbers who are speculating in high-priced coal.

The spontaneity and enthusiasm with which members of both branches signed the Boston American petition was one of the most interesting situations which has occurred during the present session o fthe Legislature.

The petition was circulated in House Chambers by Representatives Joseph D. Toomey of South Boston and Edward J. Kelley of Worcester, and in the Senate by Senator William J. Francis of Charlestown.

IN THIS ORDER.

The petition was signed by members of the Legislature in this order:

President Frank G. Allen, Senators Wellington Wells of Boston, Walter E. McLane of Fall River, Eben S. Draper of Hopedale, Christian Nelson of Worcester, Albert T. Rhodes of Worcester, Albert P. Wadleigh of Merrimac, William I. Hennessey of Boston, Dexter A. Snow of Westfield, John F. Shea of Holyoke, James G. Moran of Mansfield, Edward J. Cox of East Boston, William S. Egmontarin of Boston, William A. O'Hearn of North Adams, John W. Haigis of Montague, John M. Gibbs of Waltham, Walter T. Crease of Danvers.

Coal Is Plentiful, Says Phelan, But Try to Get It

The peak of the coal crisis has been passed, James J. Phelan, State Fuel Administrator announces.

More production of hard coal than in former years inspires the statement. The problem now becomes simply one of transporting the coal from mines to dealers, to consumers, Mr. Phelan avers.

He optimistically adds that the outlook for transportation is so good that he believes he will be "out of a job" by the middle of March — perhaps sooner.

TURKISH PAPERS ATTACK Y.M.C.A.

Constantinople, Jan. 25.—An open attack on the activities of the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association is made by the radical newspaper Tevhid Afkiar, which demands that the government and the parents of the nation take steps against these organizations.

The newspaper alleges that under the guise of education and physical development the associations are carrying on a religious propaganda, and declares that the Y. W. C. A. through free entertainments, is poisoning the future motherhood of Islam.

MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY TO GERRY FROM LOU IS STILL TO COME

Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—Lou Tellegen, commenting on rumors of a possible reconciliation with Geraldine Farrar after reports reached him of Mrs. Farrar's death in New York and postponement of the divorce action brought against him by Miss Farrar, said here he would "drop dead if there has been any communication" between him and "the other party."

Tellegen said he did not know why his attorneys asked a postponement of the divorce hearing.

He said he was not the sender of a bouquet of roses handed over the footlights to Miss Farrar when she appeared in concert recently at Lynn, Mass., and said first information of the death of his wife's mother, Mrs. Henrietta Farrar, reached him through newspaper men.

"I have sent no telegram of condolence to my wife," he added.

JAP 'PICTURE BRIDES' MENACE U. S. IN HAWAII

Washington, Jan. 25.—Continued importation of "picture brides in Hawaii threatens to give the Japanese numerical, political and commercial control in the territory and menaces the security of the United States, according to a report submitted today to Secretary of Labor Davis by a special commission which has just completed an investigation of labor conditions in the islands.

The traffic in "picture brides," coupled with the present policy of "parental adoption," have defeated the purpose of the so-called "gentlemen's agreement" between Japan and the United States, the commission declared.

"The menace from a military standpoint," the report of the investigators stated, "can be fully verified by referring to the records of related Federal departments.

"The question of national defence submerges all others into insignificance. If these islands are to remain American, the assured control of the political, industrial, commercial, social and educational life of the islands must also be American and the sooner we wake up to fuller appreciation of this imperative and immediate need the sooner we will make the people of the Hawaiian Islands feel generally a greater sense of security and control of all that continues to make continued life in the territory of Hawaii worth while."

Immediate remedial legislation by Congress, the commission said, was necessary in the interests of national defence and the welfare of American citizenship in the territory.

HARDING BACK AT HIS DESK TODAY

Washington, Jan. 25.—President Harding returned to his desk today for the first time since he was taken ill with grip more than a week ago. During his absence from his office he was confined to his bed several days and subsequently remained in his room under orders of the White House physician, Brigadier-General Sawyer.

The President reached the executive offices at 10:20 a. m., and immediately delved into accumulated official papers.

TODAY

may be offered to others, more respectable, nearer home.

THE FRENCH have inflicted fairly moderate fines on German industrial leaders, and, according to reports received, the trial seems to have been a fair one, the French prosecutor taking rather a sympathetic attitude toward German citizens who declared that their loyalty was to their Fatherland—not to France.

INVASION THUS far seems not to have paid. It is reported that although they have taken considerable coal by force, the French, as a total result, have 750,000 tons fewer than they would have had even under the unsatisfactory deliveries that Germany was making.

THE FRENCH have added 80 per cent. to the wages of the coal mines in the invaded district. They are paying bonuses and making extra allowances for the high cost of living. Such measures are very practical. Whether they will convert workers of the Ruhr to the idea that their country should be made into an independent buffer state between France and Germany remains to be seen.

HEROIC FATHER FAILS TO SAVE BOY IN FIRE

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 25.—Herbert Blake lifted up his three-year-old son, Samuel, gave the child a kiss and then turned to light the kitchen stove.

He poured from a can marked kerosene. It was gasoline. Flames leaped from the stove to lace curtains. In a trice the room was a furnace. His clothes ablaze Blake jumped toward his son.

At once he realised he could not pick up the child without causing death. Seizing rugs from the floor he beat the flames in an effort to save the boy.

Members of the family later found the child's charred body on the floor. The father, unconscious, lay nearby. He is dying.

Regaining consciousness for a minute he told how he purchased the supposed kerosene in a Portsmouth store. An investigation has started. Blake is a navy yard worker. He lived in Tenneyville, Kittery Point.

POPULAR LYNN BOY ENTERS FILMS

Famous Players-Lasky Motion Picture Corporation has added a new member to its constellation in the person of William Frary, a popular Lynn boy of eighteen, now employed by the Boston American. Mr. Frary is well known in amateur dramatics, having played with the Edgecomb Stock Co. company and Wald Dramatic Club. He was born and bred in East Lynn and graduated from Lynn English High School, class of 1921. He entered Northeastern University in September.

William Frary.

Mr. Frary's first film venture will be with Blanche Sweet in New York.

PLAY WITH YOUR WORK.

"Mix work with play." That is the dictum of Douglas Fairbanks, whose whole professional life has been laid out on that plan, and which is reflected in his work before the camera. In "Robin Hood," now playing at the Park Theatre, you get Mr. Fairbanks at his best in both work and play. Doug emphasizes the fact that one human being can do good work after having worked to the point of producing a withering fatigue, and, he remarks pointedly, that it makes little difference how important any task may be, its complete accomplishment can almost invariably wait until one is best able, physically, to dig in and execute it successfully. If you have no wholesome outdoor sports, you're not liable to last long as a valuable indoor toiler," he declares. "It's all a question of getting work and play mixed in proper proportions. Be wise in this mixing process and you'll get rid of half of life's troubles."

FILMING HELD UP.

The filming of several scenes in "To Get Getter" Cosmopolitan Productions' picturisation of a Peter B. Kyne story now being made at Fort Lee, New Jersey, was held up (wo days as a result of a minor accident to T. Roy Barnes, who with Seena Owen is featured in the production. Shortly after finishing a scene in which he and Louis Wolheim engage in a realistic rough and tumble battle, and in which Barnes managed to escape with a few bruises, he slipped on the icy pavement and sprained his ankle so badly that it was necessary to place it in a plaster cast.

DEATH SIGN OF BLACK HAND BLOCKS PROBE

The black hand death sign, most dreaded of threats among Italians, is believed to block Cambridge police in their efforts to run down the trio of masked bandits who tied Mrs. Carmelina Disicono to a chair in the kitchen of her home and ransacked her house.

Conflicting stories of the affair are told by the woman and her husband. The woman at first told of the black hand threat, but later denied it. Sergeant Healey, Patrolman Callahan and Kelley, who are investigating the crime, however, declared that she is evidently in fear of a return of her assailants.

Lady Luck was for and again John Rideout today.

John is fifty years old and heavy built. He is employed at the Simon Dry Dock, Marginal street, East Boston. He slipped on the top of the dock today and fell to the bottom of the dock, thirty feet, a solid fall for a heavy man of his age.

But East Boston Relief Hospital, after careful examination, reported later that all the injury John seemed to have was a bruised chest.

He was unlucky in falling; lucky in not breaking something.

He is married and lives at No. 24 Marginal street.

"Blime Me, Halbert, This Guzzlin Must Stop"

Chicago, Jan. 25.—A question of caste, "upstairs and down," in the home of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick came up in a Police Court here. Alma Ohlinger, a pantry girl, made a charge of assault against Albert Meek, English butler. To Judge Jacobs she spoke as one aggrieved:

"Blime, if this Halbert doesn't fall in love with me. 'E began 'ugging me in the pantry. I says 'keep your plyce.' But 'e kept musin' me.

"'Out of my pantry, Mr. Halbert Meek,' I says. And strike me pink if 'e don't up and raise 'is hand to me.

"'E guzzled me, your lordship; that 'e did. And I goes out and gets me a bobby. 'Like 'im,' I says to the bofficer. 'Like 'im and teach 'im what it means for a cat to look at a queen.'"

The court reprimanded Albert.

G. B. SHAW TIRES OF DRAWING WAR MORALS

By Cosmopolitan News Service

London, Jan. 25.—It's unexpressible, this old world of ours, at least George Bernard Shaw thinks so.

Shaw who has been taking the folly of war for years and now he has wasted of it, today chastened he "cannot spend the rest of life drawing the moral of war."

"Disillusioned wretches that we are, we fail to grasp the real significance of the results of war," Shaw said. "Now that our females are forgotten, our economic status diminished and the soldiers they fed demobilized to starve when they cannot get employment in mending what we broke, even the iron mouthed them were he still alive, would perhaps spare us, disillusioned wretches as we are. But I cannot spend the rest of my life drawing the moral of war."

NEGROES, TOLD TO QUIT TOWN, OBEY ORDER

Blanford, Ind., Jan. 25.—This little coal mining town was quiet today and all negro families had moved away, following the warning issued by a number of white citizens that unless the colored man who attacked an eleven-year-old white girl was turned over to them before noon yesterday they would be "run out of town."

When the "zero hour" approached, the last of the negroes were on their way to Terre Haute and Clinton, near here. Many families did not wait for the time limit to expire, but left immediately after the warning. No disorders were reported.

An investigation of the attack and of the orders issued by the citizens for negroes to move, was being made today by Captain H. A. Collins of the Indiana National Guard, under order from Governor T. McCray.

EMBASSY BOOZE STIRS TREASURY DEPARTMENT

Washington, Jan. 25 (By the Associated Press).—The machinery of the Federal Government has been set in motion to ascertain whether any foreign embassies and legations have brought into the country excessive shipments of liquor to be diverted later into the bootleg trade in the national capital.

The Treasury Department has sent a memorandum to the State Department which is understood to call attention to "certain unusual shipments" of liquor to embassies and legations.

While no formal protest concerning the shipments was made, Treasury officials said several shipments in recent weeks were of such magnitude as to attract the attention of prohibition enforcement officers.

The Treasury was represented as believing that more liquor was coming in than was "reasonably required" by the staffs of the foreign representatives.

While enforcement agents report a marked decrease in the supply of "embassy" liquors said to be finding their way into the illicit traffic here as a result of the alleged disclosures by John J. Lynch, arrested in a recent raid on his apartment, the police were known to be tightening their surveillance today of all suspected sources of such liquor.

SALEM MAN GETS ONE OF THOSE K.K.K. NOTES

Signalling Rum Ships With Street Light

LANDING ILLICIT LIQUOR CARGO ON BEACH AT SCITUATE

SCITUATE RUM FLEET USES SIGNAL CODE

A seventy-mile an-hour gale with sleet and rain swept across Massachusetts Bay, the coast guard cutter Tampa rode out the storm off the shore inside the arm of Cape Cod, and the coast guard patrols along the Scituate cliffs joined with the town police in keeping an all night lookout.

It was small wonder that the fleet of liquor laden schooners from British and French possessions to the North and South, reported headed for the Scituate shore, did not put in an appearance.

One thing became certain. The rum runners who come to Scituate in their motor trucks and fast automobiles have a system of signals by which the Cape Shore Power Company contributes its bit to the operation, without knowing it, however.

High up on Second Cliff, Scituate, above Peggoty Beach, stands an electric street lamp. As a measure of thrift a switch was installed on the side of the electric light pole.

FLASHES FROM SEA.

The rum runners marked this light. The shore runner goes to the light immediately upon arriving at his scene of operations.

By free use of the switch he can signal to ships off shore. Those who have seen the runners at work say that on a pleasant night, when the liquor laden craft are hovering off Scituate, the flicker of the street light on Second Cliff is answered by flashes from the sea.

The women of Scituate are aroused over the rum running activities in the town. The club will take up the question at a meeting next week.

Arrow points to boatload of liquor which has just been brought ashore by rum runners from a schooner lying off Scituate. It is being unloaded and carried to a waiting auto truck, upon which it is shipped to Boston and Rhode Island cities. Above, at top, is street light used to signal rum fleet that the coast is clear. In centre is shown switch attached to electric light pole which connects with incandescent light at top of pole and by means of which a code signal is operated.

"Hot Head" Victim

BELMONT YOUNG.

Suffering from stab wound inflicted by Daniel J. McInnis of Melrose, who accused Young of giving liquor to Mrs. McInnis. She denies the charge and says her husband was "hot-headed."

LAYS STABBING TO HUSBAND'S HOT TEMPER

Mrs. Daniel J. McInnis of No. 924 Main street, Melrose, denied today that her neighbor, Belmont Young of No. 926 Main street, ever gave her any liquor.

The alleged gifts of liquor were said by McInnis to have been the cause of his stabbing Young, who lies wounded in his home. Mrs. McInnis said:

"Mr. Young never gave me any liquor. My husband had no reason to harm him. He's just hot-headed, that's all. He has been out of work for some time. He refused to earn money for his family by shoveling snow, as he had a chance to do. He could have made as much money doing that as I did at the washtubs, supporting our six children."

From his bed Young, who is sixty years old, said he never gave any liquor to Mrs. McInnis. The case against McInnis will not be called until Young's condition permits him to attend the hearing.

NO PULPIT BAN ON WOMEN, SAYS HUB RECTOR

The Rev. Edmund S. Rousmaniere, dean of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, in commenting on the controversy which has arisen in Portland following the invitation of Bishop Benjamin Brewster of the Maine diocese to Miss Maude Boyden to speak from the pulpit of the Cathedral there, declares that he cannot understand why such a controversy should arise when women have been allowed to speak from Episcopal altars before.

Dean Rousmaniere

(Photo by Bachrach)

In his opinion, Miss Boyden has a perfect right to speak in any church in which she is invited to do so. She will, in fact, speak in St. Paul's Cathedral here on January 30.

Official recommendation of Miss Boyden is also given by The Churchman, official publication of the Episcopal Church in America, which says of her: "Miss Boyden is a loyal and devoted Anglican."

SELECTS GIRLS FOR "ORPHEUM FROLICS"

A flood of embryo stars and chorus girls confronted Victor Hyde, when he opened the doors of the Fine Arts Theatre last night to greet the 500 or more young ladies of Greater Boston seeking places with Loew's Orpheum Frolics, which Mr. Hyde is to produce at Loew's Orpheum during the week of February 5.

Great was the disappointment of the less fortunate ones when finally told that they could not participate in the Frolics. This evening, Mr. Hyde will undergo the same process with the young men after which company drills and rehearsals will be undertaken.

It cleans but cannot injure tooth enamel

We have chosen exactly the right cleansing agent for Listerine Tooth Paste. It is a substance just hard enough to polish off the daily accumulations of tartar. Yet it is not hard enough to injure even the most delicate tooth enamel. You have that comfortable feeling of knowing your tooth paste is doing its work—yet doing it safely.

Made by the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic

Naturally, you would expect a long established firm like the Lambert Pharmacal Company to provide you with a scientifically correct dentifrice—or none at all. It took this company years to perfect this paste for you. We are sure it is right—and the price is also right.

"It makes your mouth water"

Latest dental research has thoroughly established the fact that a dentifrice should contain mild fruit acids to stimulate the saliva which Nature provides to keep your teeth and gums healthy. Soapy ingredients cannot do this because soaps are alkaline. They discourage saliva flow and bring on tooth decay. Note how Listerine Tooth Paste makes your mouth water. The fruit acids of apple, grapes, grapefruit and orange are at work helping Nature in her own way.

Watch how it whitens and brightens your teeth

Procure a tube of this delicious dentifrice from your nearest drug dealer. The price is 25c. Give it a thorough trial. Notice how your teeth respond—how that natural white gleam is restored. You'll be delighted with the results and you'll want no other dentifrice from this time on.

Listerine Tooth Paste

is safe and efficient

—because it contains the correct polishing agent; removes tartar safely; can't injure the enamel;

—because it contains mild fruit acids (instead of harmful soaps and alkalies) to stimulate the saliva that Nature intended to keep your teeth healthy;

—because it contains the healing antiseptic essential oils contained in Listerine.

—the paste that's right at the price that's right

3 PATROLMEN WIN REWARDS OF DUTY

Boston's bravest cop—Patrolman John P. Cavanaugh of the Dudley street station.

Declaring that Cavanaugh's arrest of Albert W. Bartlett after the murder of Frank E. Small of Dorchester October 7, 1922, was the year's most distinguished example of police valor, Commissioner Wilson awarded the Walter Scott medal for valor to Cavanaugh.

The commissioner personally went to the Dudley street station to present the medal to the policeman.

Two other police officers were commended in general orders. They were Patrolman Maurice Driscoll of the Hanover street station and James T. Sheehan of the Back Bay station. Driscoll was commended for his alert arrest of two men who were later identified as highwaymen, and Sheehan for his brave stopping of a runaway ice pung, in which he saved the lives of several school children who were in its path.

Last year the board appropriated $149,719 to this branch of church activities. ## GIRL POSTAL HEAD IN WAR ON FLIRTS

MISS MARIE J. MASON

Candy counter girl and mistress of sub-postal station in Thorndike Building, who refuses to tolerate flirts. She declares she is running the station according to rules and demands full respect of all customers.

CANDY COUNTER MAID IS ROUGH ON MASHERS

"I am running this station according to Uncle Sam's regulations and men have learned to respect the station and me, too.

"But there are some men, of course, who have to be taught. Some will buy a two-cent stamp, then twirl their fingers and ask how much it is. I simply give them the glassy eye and say 'Next.'"

This is the simple recipe given today by Marie J. Mason, brown-haired, smiling maid who tends the postal sub-station and candy counter in the Thorndike Building on Boylston street, formerly the Hotel Thorndike.

CANDY BOX BARRAGE.

She is the girl who hurled five one pound boxes of chocolate candies in succession at Arthur Fiske, Boylston street jeweler, when he tried, as she says, to compel her to register a letter for him after closing time. She made an assault charge against him but it was dismissed in court.

Miss Mason is about 20 and of modest demeanor and hair not bobbed.

"I am working for Uncle Sam's government. I and the girl on the counter with me follow the government orders.

"Men have come in here and stood around and said to me: 'My wife's away this evening. Have a date with me?' I simply smile and start arranging my candy boxes. But I make no answer to them.

NO PLACE FOR FLIRTS.

"I never allow any such fooling or kidding as I have seen in some places. I try to be pleasant to all and treat them alike. Men who may have been inclined otherwise have learned to respect this counter. They come in now, say 'Good morning,' make their purchases and go about their business."

"At first a lot of men tried to make dates," said Miss Mason. She added with a demure smile, "I have a sweetie of my own."

OUT OF WORK, WOMAN TAKES LIFE BY GAS

Providence, Jan. 25.—Despondent because she could not find work, Mrs. Arline Roka, twenty-three years old, committed suicide by gas in her boarding house room. Mrs. Catherine Ryan, her landlady, of No. 118 Stewart street, found the young woman's door locked and summoned the police. A note asked that the suicide's sister be notified of her death.

FELL MAN WITH GUN, ROB AND LOCK HIM UP

Two armed men entered the grocery store of Max Smith at No. 38 East Cottage street, Roxbury, forced him to throw up his hands and locked him in the ice chest.

While one stood guard, the other went to the cash register, but was unable to open it. So they released Max and made him do it.

The bandits were not satisfied with the few pennies in the till. Consequently one of them hit the store keeper on the head with his revolver and took $40 and a gold watch from his pockets. Then they re-locked him in the chest and disappeared.

They are described as being between twenty-three and twenty-six years, five feet five inches, weighing 150 pounds. Both of them were light caps and dark overcoats.

TOO MANY MEN CAUSED ROW IN DURANT, INC.

What is the matter with Durant Inc?

Too many men, says Miss Florence Child, executive organizer of the society, and leader of the house forces in the recent row.

Dr. B. Danzig.

But men, at any rate, it is agreed by both sides, are responsible for the split in the organization, which began with an argument and is winding up in a law suit.

Miss Jewell says that the organization needs men, and the practical advice and business experience that men can give. Without male aid, she claims, Durant Inc. will turn itself into a hair-splitting female society, with visionary ideas that will lead to bankruptcy.

And Miss Child retorts that Durant has had too many men handing out advice—and especially too many real estate agents. Miss Jewell, who is employed by W. H. Ballard, the real estate agent who has been connected with the purchasing plans of Durant Inc., takes this personally, and resents it.

The trouble started over the site of the new Durant building. Dr. Blanche Danzig, president of Durant, Miss Child and a majority of the society, wished to purchase the old circus grounds on Huntington avenue. Miss Jewell and a small following, say that the organization had pledged itself to build in or near Copley Square, and taken in new members with that avowed intention.

"I don't pretend to understand the workings of Miss Jewell's mind," said Miss Child, "I can only say that I have no idea why she shifted her position." Six months later Miss Jewell and sixteen associates filed a bill in equity against Durant Inc.

Now the Durant is facing a serious split. At a meeting this week, the suggestion that the seventeen members responsible for bringing the complaint should resign was met with hisses and catcalls.

Society Events at Palm Beach Keep Boston Contingent Busy, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

OLD KING SOL may do his "durndest" as far as Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, 2nd, is concerned, for the latter's harem veil keeps that "schoolgirl" complexion quite unblemished. Even the brightest rays that fall along the strands of Palm Beach leave not a telltale freckle or tan.

Down at our own North Shore in the Summertime harem veils are quite the thing. I recall that Mrs. Freddy Prince—the Princes are Wintering at their place in Pau, France—hardly ever ventures forth without one of these Oriental looking complexion protectors. Another enthusiastic wearer is Mrs. "Pete" Borwell (Elise Pollard), whose family is of the year-round colony at Beverly Farms.

Speaking of Palm Beach, the social calendar there leaves very little time for thumb-twiddling. Everyone's either giving a party or going to one all the time. There was quite a Boston atmosphere at the fashionable Everglades Club's first dinner dance of the season. Dr. and Mrs. Hobart Endicott Warren of Beverly Farms were the guests of the George Barnards of "Riverbend Farm," Ipswich, other guests of the Barnards including Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Tangeman of New York, the latter a cousin of Mrs. Walter Pratt of the Somerset. Mrs. James Curtis was of those entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Paris Singer, who had a party of fourteen. Guests saw for the first time the new outdoor dancing floor on the terrace orange gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dobbs, also of the Beverly Farms colony at Palm Beach, were among the guests for whom Judge and Mrs. William E. Glasgow, Jr., of Philadelphia, gave a dinner at The Breakers.

LEAVE it to Mrs. Reggy Foster—with her eyes that dance as much as her feet—to add most pleasantly to the sartorial display of any occasion. The former Frances Hoar's orbs are blue, wherewith she wore a most beguiling gown of soft blue chiffon with trailing draperies when I saw her at the Opera the other night. Young Mrs. Reggy, whose mother is Mrs. Frederick Gillett, is one of the smart set's "peppiest" matrons. She has pretty, reddish brown hair, a pair of very sprightly toes—she's added to the jollity of many a Vincent Club show—and no end of vivacity. A most effective combination.

MRS. HARRISON REYNOLDS (Jean Fletcher) of Boston, and formerly of New York, went over to the latter city the other day to act as bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Marie Rose Lamarche and Thomas A. Connors, solemnized on Monday at the Church of St. Vincent Ferrere. Following the ceremonial, a small reception followed at Sherry's, the bride and groom leaving shortly for their honeymoon in Bermuda.

When Harrison Gardner Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Reynolds of Milton, last September married the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fletcher, Mrs. Connors—then Miss Lamarche—was in the bridesmaids' group. Also of the bridal group at the Reynolds-Fletcher nuptials were Miss Barbara Reynolds of Milton and Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater, Jr.

ANOTHER New York ceremonial carrying with it a Boston interest was the ceremony which transformed Miss Jane Brush, daughter of George De Forest Brush, into Mrs. Winslow Shelby Coates.

The maid of honor was Miss Thea Brush, who came over to Boston last month as the house-guest of debutante Frances Smith, whose coming-out ball was one of the most important bud affairs of the season. Both George De Forest Brush and Joseph Lindon Smith are well-known painters, and both, with their families, are members of the Summer colony at Dublin, N. H.

MRS. JAMES H. PROCTOR of Boston has been spending a few days in New York at the St. Regis.

N. Y. UNEMPLOYMENT AT PRE-WAR FIGURE

New York, Jan. 25.—Unemployment in New York is far less than a year ago, the Merchants Association announced today. In January, 1922, there were 330,000 persons out of work. Today it was estimated about 100,000 are unemployed, the number out of work or idle by their own choice, is normal times.

ALL INSANE TO SOME EXTENT, SAYS JUDGE

Fitchburg, Jan. 25.—"We are all insane to a certain extent," said Judge Frederick H. Chamberlain in Probate Court here, dismissing a petition brought by George R. Peabody, manufacturer, to have Attorney Ralph W. Robbins appointed guardian of the petitioner's brother, William H. Peabody, on the ground that William is insane.

William is one of five candidates for postmaster of Fitchburg. Brother George asserted that Brother William was over-enthusiastic about his political chances, even to extent of mental weakness.

Judge Chamberlain inclined that William was a little over-zealous in his postmaster prospects but did not hold that political ambition was proof of insanity.

Brother George said Brother William spent money too freely, made presents to the High School Football Team and invited a nurse from Herbert Hall Hospital in Worcester to a football banquet.

Superintendent Charles E. Thompson of Gardner State Colony testified that he examined William, January 16, and found him in excellent mental condition, able to talk coherently and connectedly.

Dr. Frederick Thompson of this city, family physician, said William had suffered from boils and influenza and was unbalanced to certaindegree, but he would not call the man insane.

LEADING LADY FOR STAGE BALL IS SOUGHT

Wanted: A leading lady.

That is the problem of those who are projecting the Theatrical Ball in Mechanics Hall next Tuesday night.

There is no dearth of material. Far from it. In fact, every leading lady in every show playing in Boston will be there. From among them there must be chosen the one who is to lead the grand march. How to choose her?

The committee is puzzled. It will probably be decided by a drawing at the last moment.

The grand march will be only one of a number of interesting features of the ball. Miss Frances Aldrich of Brookline will give an exhibition dance. The decorations will be a revelation. They should be—the best stage managers in town are on the job arranging them.

One of the most interesting of the features will be the Fountain of Perfume. The perfume for this fountain has already come in from New York—gallons of it. At this fountain, in the centre of the ball room, all the ladies in attendance will be presented with souvenirs.

There will be a large vaudeville bill, a concert, exhibitions of dancing and then a general dance which will last as long as the dancers can keep going.

SIAMESE TWIN COUPLER GIVES DUAL CONTROL

A Siamese twin coupler devised by a Winthrop inventor, is attracting considerable attention among radio fans.

The coupler includes a stationary primary winding (F, Fig. 1), similar to the stator of a variocoupler, which is tapped off to binding posts at A, and a secondary shaped like the rotor of a variocoupler, E. The latter, in addition to revolving within the stator, can be moved laterally by means of the knob B, which is connected to a cogged wheel.

By this means it is possible to vary the coupling in two ways, and the geared wheel allows for practically Vernier control. It is planned in mounting the device to have the shaft of the dial C move through a slot in the panel, carrying with it a diamond-shaped pointer in another slot. One side of the pointer would indicate the degree of rotating coupling, while the other side would show the degree of lateral coupling.

USES HOUSE CURRENT.

The inventor, Arthur O. Kolstad of No. 37 Emerson road, Winthrop Centre, has recently devised a method of hooking up a transformer to the A. C. house current in such a way that this supply can be used for both plate and filament supply of a single tube reflex using a crystal detector. This hookup will be described in the American as soon as Mr. Kolstad has insured his patent rights.

Two suggestions offered in the WD-11 tube contest are shown in Figures 3 and 3.

Fig. 2 shows the rear of a double circuit telephone jack fitted with binding posts, as suggested by Conant L. Starr of Main street, Spencer. A, B, C, and D are strips of thin metal (E) that have been drilled and fitted with binding posts from old dry cells.

"It is only necessary," says Mr. Starr, "to loosen the two screws at F and slip the parts A, B, C and D in between the insulators and the metal jack. This wrinkle should prove of interest to those who construct their own radio sets, for often different hookups are tried, and it is a nuisance to have to resolder the wires each time."

SPIDER-WEB COILS.

A new use for spider-web coils is described by Richard B. Baldwin of Bangor, Me. (Fig. 3).

The coils L2 and L4 consist of 25 turns of No. 24 d. c. c. wire. They must be set up so that their relative position may be varied.

With this hook-up he has received the following stations, most of them without the amplifier: WCAE, WJZ, WOR, KDKA, WNAC, WGI, WGY, WJF, WDAP, WHAM, WEAF, WBZ, WHAZ, WFI, KOP, WQAA, WJAX, WWJ, WBAP, WHK, NOP, WHAS, WOO, WOC, WHAX, WGF, WKB.

DIAGRAMS IN TUBE CONTEST

Fig. 1 is a novel coupler, combining the advantages of a loose-coupler and a variocoupler, invented by a Winthrop man. Fig. 2 shows a scheme for fitting binding posts to a telephone jack for experimental work. Fig. 3 is a hook-up devised by a Maine fan, which uses two spider-web coils (L3 and L4).

WIFE SPIED ON FLANDERS AND 'OTHER WOMAN'

A wife's tempestuous emotions as she looked through the window of the home from which she says, she was banned, and watched the "other woman" putting the children to bed and then embracing their father, were described by Mrs. Mildred Flanders, who is seeking a divorce from Percy Flanders in East Cambridge Divorce Court.

Mrs. Flanders charges infidelity, naming Mrs. Hazel E. Smith, her husband's housekeeper. She seeks the custody of her three children, Rebecca, six years old, Tommy, four, and Herbert, three.

Mrs. Flanders engaged the housekeeper while she was taking a prescribed six months' rest. At the end of the six months, she said, her husband was unwilling to discharge the housekeeper and allow his wife to resume her place at the head of the household. It was then that the wife played detective outside her home at No. 16 Ames street, Somerville, and watched the intimate domestic scenes within, she said:

"For more than two hours I crept from window to window, listening. I saw her kiss my children that they had taken from me, and tuck them in bed. I heard her and my husband come downstairs and go into the drawing room and play some sacred music on the victrola.

"Then they turned down the light in the drawing room. I was so overcome with emotion that I fainted in the snow outside the window."

Flanders and Mrs. Smith are expected to take the stand today.

SCHIPA SCORES TRIUMPH IN 'RIGOLETTO'

By ZOE FABER.

Tito Schipa, tenor, shouldered Verdi's "Rigoletto" last night at the Boston Opera House and walked off with flying colors. The golden voice was welcomed warmly in Boston and it is hoped that more than the one appearance now scheduled will be given to Mr. Schipa, whose voice and ability entitle him to first place.

"Rigoletto was sung and sung very well by Cesare Formichi, and it is a matter of regret that Mr. Formichi's ability to act is entirely out of line with the splendor of his voice.

MISSES PATHOS.

The role of Rigoletto is one that calls for complete self-effacement and an entire submission to the character in hand. Mr. Formichi missed much of the pathos of the heartbroken father, thereby detracting from his singing, which is remarkably good.

Florence Macbeth sang Gilda. She has a voice with a lot of power but there is a strong tendency to sing decidely of the pitch. Also, she leaves an infinite amount to be desired when it comes to the dramatic interpretation of the role. Ettore Panizza conducted.

MUZIO IN DOUBLE BILL.

A heavy burden was laid on the altogether capable shoulders of Claudio Muzio, soprano, in the afternoon when she sang both Santuzza in Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Nedda in Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci." To the great credit of Mme. Muzio as singer and actress, the burden seemed none too heavy. Honors were shared about evenly between Claudio Muzio and Pietro Cimini, conductor. This was Boston's first opportunity for hearing Cimini and he acquitted himself exceedingly well.

In "Cavalleria," Forrest Lamont, whose voice has improved wonderfully since last heard a few years ago, sang Turiddu and Desire Defrere took the role of Alfio. Irene Pavlowska sang Lola only fairly well —her acting was better than her voice. Anna Correnti sang Lucia and was good.

The outstanding figures of the cast were Muzio and Lamont. Mr. Lamont, by the way, could have been more effective had he been made up more than he was. The famous "Siciliana" aria off stage was splendid. The Brindisi by Lamont and chorus was unusually vivid and reflected great credit on the conductor.

'PAGLIACCI' WELL SUNG.

The donkey was missing, but everything else was there, so we forgave his absence, although we like our "Pagliacci" best when dressed up with a donkey.

Giacomo Rimini was Tonio and the prologue displayed his entirely satisfactory voice well. There is good quality there and he knows how to get the most out of it—knowledge not always possessed.

Canio's Lament, which has played upon heartstrings for generations, was not so effective in the hands of Charles Marshall as many other tenors have made it. Nor was he an interesting Canio — overemphatic with too much tendency to bluster. Acting upon a stage within a stage requires more finesse.

Desire Defrere, also taking the second role of one afternoon, made

SHUNS ROLE IN OPERA FOR VAUDEVILLE

The town is full of opera and opera singers.

Upper Huntington avenue is crowded with the artists of the Chicago Opera Company, but downtown, at Keith's, there is an operatic throat that has defied the blandishments of impresarios and still insists that the two-a-day arrangement in vaudeville is just as helpful for the voice and in the long run more to be desired in practical ways. Which is introducing Yvette Rugel, who is singing the same classic melodies at Keith's that you may hear out in the Fenway district.

Miss Rugel brings something of a local flavor to her engagement at Keith's this week, and the fact that she is competing in an artistic way with the city's principal opera season makes her visit a little more exciting—to her, at least. Miss Rugel has an operatic voice that is much in demand—but opera has never heard it. She simply refuses to let her talents carry her in that direction although she has had many tempting offers and once turned down the great Campanini.

As Miss Rugel explains, a voice is a voice, whether you hear it in classic halls or in an outdoor concert. "For me," she adds, "the warmth of vaudeville is more to be desired than the chill of grand opera."

YOUNG POLISH PIANIST HEARD IN RECITAL

By ZOE FABER.

Mieczyslaw Munz, young Polish pianist, newly come to this country, and fresh from New York with laurels galore, came to Boston and gave a piano recital in Jordan Hall.

It did not take more than the first number—the Bach-Busoni Toccato and Fugue—to discover that Mr. Munz is a pianist far and away above the remainder that have come and gone from Boston this season.

There is all and more than the necessary technical equipment and beside, there is interpretation that is interesting because it is poetic and individual.

His audience was appreciative and enthusiastic and will welcome the artist when he comes again. A group of Chopin on the next program would be a matter of interest.

GIRLS ENSLAVED IN PLOT OF U. S. NARCOTIC AGENTS

ONE IS DEAD, FIVE ARE DEBAUCHED BY HUB DRUG SCANDAL

By JAMES WHITTAKER.
Copyright, Universal Service.

New England has discovered and punished a new Benedict Arnold. He is Ralph A. Fry, who used his office of Federal Narcotic Agent in Boston to blackmail two States. Fry, found guilty of a small per cent. of his villainies, is free on bail while awaiting an appeal of his case.

Not until one young woman died, five were debauched by drugs and four defamed by scandal—not until a score of New England men of the medical, clerical and professorial professions were hounded to ruin—not until sister Elodie Kennedy crept home to Jacksonville, Me., to bear an illegitimate child and pretty Rila Chapman shrieked from the dirtybed on which she rotted with drugs in Portland—not, in short, until New England found the miseries of Fry's official malfeasance unbearable, was he brought to book.

Now, with Fry punished and his office superior, Dr. E. C. Ruth, head of the Boston Narcotics Bureau deposed and censured, officialdom swiftly buries a horrible record.

BROUGHT INTO LIGHT.

But for a brief and sensational reference to the case in the current issue of Hearst's International Magazine, this burial were deep and definite. However, here it is above ground again, forced from reticent Yankee communities and dragged from official hiding places by all the men and resources of this news service.

Not one but a hundred victims of corruption in the United States Government Narcotic Service rise up in this record to indict the system which set Fry and company up in places of power.

Over the drama hangs a heavy iron. It starts from the grave of a twenty-year-old girl in the Woburn cemetery who died that Fry might have a dozen silk shirts.

Grace Logue was killed by an overdose of morphine self administered on Christmas Eve, 1921, in the Woburn office of Dr. Michael M. Stevens. Dr Stevens was acquitted by two juries of the charge that he murdered the girl, who was his office nurse.

The theory advanced by the State at both trials was that Stevens, who seemed to have employed Grace only to corrupt her and make her his companion in a series of orgies of which he was grand master, eventually tired of her and deliberately filled a morphine needle with a double solution of the drug to which she was addicted.

He scientifically calculated the amount, they claimed, necessary to kill and then left the needle where he knew that Grace, an addict of his making, would find it when next her drug craving seized her.

SISTER'S VENGEANCE.

The Boston jury which first passed on Stevens' guilt could not credit a human being with mind so skilled in depravity. Stevens went free.

The whole matter of criminality of the drug addict is put concisely by Sidney Howard in the current issue of Hearst's International Magazine when he says: "Dope is undoubtedly the greatest single breeder of crime. Sooner or later the majority of dope users become fish for the police net."

Grace Logue had a sister, Anna Logue. Anna was an actress, employed for minor roles in a troupe of barnstorming players. News of her sister's death came to her in the Far West. She did not have the price of the railroad fare home. The management could or would not advance it. Perforce she waited through long weeks while the troupe zig-zagged slowly eastward. She said:

"Grace did not commit suicide. She was murdered. I shall see her murderer hanged."

When Anna Logue returned to Boston, Stevens' trial was over. The pretty twenty-year-old barnstormer went out pluckily to storm the offices of the district attorneys.

The avenging of sister Grace's death become an obsession in Anna's mind. Her troupe reassembled after the Summer and departed without her. She received a proposal of marriage from an old and somewhat favored suitor and turned him down.

She was dedicated to a single solemn thing.

One agency which she had not yet used in her schemes to avenge was the Federal Narcotic Squad of Boston. She went to Dr. Erwin C. Ruth chief of the squad, and appealed for his aid. He turned her over to his assistant and pal, Ralph Fry.

MONEY-MAKING SCHEME.

Could she have known it at the time, there was a genesis of her corruption. She shook Fry's hand, and was marked. We shall show that it was never healthy to shake Fry's hand.

Fry was encouraging.

"Sure, cutie. Leave it to daddy."

Of Fry's words the most significant were "cutie" and "daddy."

They were the keynotes of all that the Federal Narcotic Service subsequently did for and to Anna Logue.

Unfortunately for Anna, she came to Dr. Ruth's office at a time when he was interested in things far more important (to him) than enforcement of the law. With Fry he was immersed in a money-making scheme to connect and sell a moving picture about dope.

Dr. Ruth had charge of promotion. He managed to obtain stationery from various Boston newspaper offices and to convince several gullible business men that his movie scheme would have the good-will of the press. Fry had the more romantic mission of assembling a cheap acting cast.

"Girls," ordered Ruth, "we must have pretty girls."

It is too bad that Anna was pretty. We shall watch Fry recruiting Anna for the movies. A pretence of being active on the solution of the mystery of Grace Logue's murder enabled Fry to cultivate a friendly intimacy with the girl long before August 28, 1922, the date of the letter from Fry to Anna reproduced here with.

FRY'S LETTER QUOTED.

"Well, sweetheart, write me when you want to come to see your Daddy and I will arrange everything pretty," he writes from Portland, Me. "With a million little kisses all for you."

The letter leaves little doubt about the nature of Fry's work on the Logue murder mystery.

Ruth and Fry had no money with which to pay the acting cast of their movie film. But all Federal agents have plenty of dope—product of their professional raids on the hiding places of illicit dope stores.

By Federal law this seized dope all goes to a central clearing office in Washington, where most of it is distributed to government hospitals for legitimate medical use. But an agent does not have to be phenomenally clever to make his reports on paper match his dope on hand. Fry paid movie salaries in dope. He had a cast of girl dope-fiends.

Where he hired undrugged talent, he taught it the use of dope. He schooled Evelyn Stanfield in this lowest of vices and made her content to receive a vial of morphine as wages after a hard day in the studio. Fry was a masterly financier.

Evelyn was not the only girl he had inducted into the moving picture business by the same means. With her under the purple studio lights were Mae Cookson and Ruth Merrill Boston girls of good family who had been drawn into the real life plot which Mr. Fry unfolded contemporaneously with the concocted fiction which was being acted before the lens.

STORY OF EVELYN.

Behold Messrs. Fry and Ruth among the harem rugs and Oriental divans and opium lay-outs which they had assembled as properties of their production and lording it over a colony of Boston's most beautiful girls. There were glorious moments in the pair's careers and they were more than willing to purchase them with the doles of drugs with which they maintained their mastery over their way down-eastern harem.

Of Mae Cookson we shall have more to tell when, later, she turns up in Dr. Ruth's company over the State line in Maine, acting the role of a government informer and registering in a Portland hotel as Dr. Ruth's wife.

But Evelyn Stanfield's story comes now.

Known to a little group of Boston's radical art colony as "Tarzan" (a tribute to her luxuriously tangled blonde hair), Evelyn comes to Fry's toils after an adventure in which she defied her legal guardian.

The guardian had been appointed by the courts to force Evelyn to take a cure for the drug habit which she had contracted during her experiences as model to Boston artists of irregular habits.

There are in every great city groups of the artistic [illegible] to court sensation [illegible] Stanfield took her [illegible] dope in obedience to a [illegible] interpretation of the dictum: "The artist must feel."

Her guardian sent her to several institutions which advertise themselves as drug cures before he learned that drug [illegible] cure. There was money to finance these attempts to rehabilitate the beautiful Boston art model. At the time of the appointment of the guardian, Evelyn had fallen heir to a small fortune, the legacy of a distant relative.

Evelyn was locked in her guardian's home, drugs were taken away from her and private detectives were posted to see that no outsider smuggled drugs to her room.

In the locked room Evelyn went through all the horrible stages of the so-called withdrawal symptoms." Her body burned. Her uncontrollable motor nerves whipped her about the floor until she shrieked with the pain of many bruises and tortured nerves.

She was as truly a mad woman as any maniac who is strait-jacketed in an asylum, when, finally, she splintered the door with a chair and rushed past the guard into the street. She eluded the surprised detectives with maniac cunning and she disappeared.

Twenty-four hours later she was picked up unconscious in a Boston street. She had gotten her hands on a bottle of paregoric and had wallowed enough to kill three men.

She did not die. Moreover she came out of the hospital officially cured of her drug habit and regained her personal liberty. She used it to make the acquaintance of Fry. Fry used it to make her one of the dope-addicts of his movie seraglio.

FILM IS DESTROYED.

It is to be regretted that the Ruth Fry film was destroyed last week in a fire which broke out in their studio. There would have been a realism about its drug-orgie scenes which would have made acting blush.

The camera crank was turning merrily last August when Ruth and Fry received news from Portland, Me., which put a temporary stop to artistic production. Portland and the surrounding country was alive with dope. Scores of doctors were not only selling it illegally but were addicted to it themselves.

Money was needed for further ventures in the film industry. Also Mr. Fry wanted some new silk shirts and a costly overcoat. Ruth and Fry packed and left. With Ruth went Mae Cookson. Little Anna Logue was to wait until she got the word to come from Fry.

Meanwhile an unexpected element had entered into the affairs of Ruth and Fry, unknown to them. Tardily, they were under suspicion. Washington had awakened to the fact that the Boston office of the Federal Narcotic Bureau was being mismanaged.

Bureaucracy stirred. Colonel L. G. Nutt, head of the service, issued an order that Ruth be investigated. Simultaneously the Boston correspondent of this service, raking over the ashes of the Grace Logue murder mystery, came upon a document. It was a diary kept by the nurse whom Grace Logue succeeded in the tragic offices of Dr. Michael Stevens. The diary revealed that Grace's predecessor had also been an addict and had fully expected to die as Grace had died.

In Hearst's International of February this is how the document is described.

"This precise and [illegible] it is one of the [illegible] the whole literature of [illegible]

In it was material on which to base the revival of an old criminal charge which had been dropped. In it, perhaps, was the clew which may lead to the solution of the mystery of Grace Logue's death.

Publication was reserved until now, when it can no longer be reserved. It, and the story of its author, will be printed in these columns tomorrow.

SISTERS AND ACCUSING NOTE

GRAPPLERS ADD $5,000 TO RECORD PURSE

By JACK CONWAY.

John Pesek, Nebraska Tiger Man, will strive to score two falls against Nat Pendleton inside of seventy-five minutes in their $10,000 wrestling match, which will be staged at the Grand Opera House tonight under the direction of the Old Howard management.

It is the biggest money wrestling match ever staged in Boston. Each wrestler has put up $2,500 towards the purse. The balance was added by the Old Howard management.

Ten thousand dollars will go to the winner. It is not stage money either.

This writer has been reporting big boxing and wrestling events for twelve years. During this time we have held hundreds of thousands of dollars as forfeits. There was often talk of a side bet while a match was in the air of being steamed up. But at the last minute the side bet was usually canceled.

When Paul Bowser, acting for Pesek, posted $500 for appearance and Pendleton covered it we did not take seriously their claims that they also intended to catch said from $1,000 to $5,000 to the purse.

We received an agreeable surprise when Pendleton later posted $2,500 in real money. This amount was covered by Max Bauman, manager of Pesek. Again real money was deposited with this writer.

An investigation later revealed that Pendleton raised his money from among students who are in his wrestling class at Columbia and also from grapplers who make their headquarters in New York.

• • •

Pendleton does not believe Pesek or any other wrestler can throw him inside of seventy-five minutes. He believes that by going on the defensive he will baffle Pesek.

The Nebraska Tiger Man says he will be satisfied as long as Pendleton does not run out of the ring.

• • •

"Once I get my hands on [illegible] I defeat him," said Pesek today. "I may use him a little bit roughly but I shall win."

Bauman points to the fact that Pesek tossed Wladek Zbyszko three in twenty-seven minutes.

It is the opinion of men who have followed the wrestling game for years that Pesek is a better performer than even Stanislaus Zbyszko. This despite the fact that Pesek only weighs 185 pounds.

Pendleton will have a weight advantage ten pounds, as he scales about 200 pounds.

• • •

The size of the purse and also the bitter rivalry between the two men will mean a capacity crowd.

The match also brings together two men whom Lewis has refused to meet. Consequently it will be an elimination affair.

There will also be a strong preliminary card.

Eddie Shevlin has resumed training at Hanover, N. H. for his return bout with Dave Shade, which will be staged under the direction of the Arena A. C. at Mechanics Building on Saturday evening, February 3. Shevlin is doing a great deal of road work, while he is also working out daily with a couple of husky sparring partners. He declares that the side which he wrenched playing football is all right once more.

Slade is doing his training in New York and will not come to Boston until the latter part of next week, as the winner will probably get the first decision bout with Mick Walker. The rivals are determined to put up a hard conflict as they know the Arena clubs office is prepared to hand out the advance receipts of about [illegible] $15,000 each. The [illegible] will probably total about $30,000.

• • •

It is reported among the Ringside that Mike Malloy returns to Washington he will be accompanied by Bob Lee. Mike seems to think that Robert of the boxing commission would make an ideal sparring partner for Bug Tagiman. Malloy says he'll be back soon.

Now the Washington Monument will be glad to gaze upon Lee. The latter will also be delighted to set in one of those Pullman cars.

Jack Conway Hands Out Tip on Pesek, Short Ender

Jack Conway is playing a long shot tonight by picking John Pesek to win over Nat Pendleton in their $10,000 wrestling match at the Old Howard's show at the Grand Opera House.

"Pesek is one of the world's greatest grapplers," declared Jack. "Although the Nebraska Tiger Man only weighs 185 pounds, he has been passed up by the world's leading grapplers. Of course, I know that the big fellows have also avoided Pendleton. "I am picking Pesek because he tossed Wladek Zbyszko twice in twenty-seven minutes in a match at Kansas City. Any wrestler who could perform such a feat should be able to win over Pendleton also."

MYSTERY MAN WILL GRAPPLE PENDLETON

Here is the Tiger from Nebraska who will meet Nat Pendleton in the most sensational mat bout of the season.

Wrestling fans are all "het" up over the match which promises to produce more fireworks than a Payne's Pyrotechnics ever showed.

NO SIGN OF WAR IN BASEBALL, SAYS JUDGE

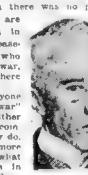
By JUDGE LANDIS, Baseball Commissioner.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 25.—The Bible tells us of those who cried "peace, peace," when there was no peace. Well, there are those both in and out of baseball today who are crying "war, war," when there is no war.

Does anyone know of a "war" in baseball, either present or coming? If they do, they know more than I do of what is going on in baseball. There is talk about a so-called "general congress of the minor leagues" to be held for the purpose of discussing an alleged "war."



Judge Landis.

I should like to ask some of these alarmists, in the words of the streets, "where do they get that stuff?"

This talk about serious trouble in baseball is largely imaginative. You know there are plenty of people in the world who are never so happy as when they are seeking to stir up trouble. In baseball there are many such kind of folk. I suppose they want to see what they call "action." They circulate rumors simply through a desire to be sensational and to get trouble of one kind or another started.

They are not alone in the world. There are plenty like them who are always seeking trouble on any excuse. They are the trouble makers we hear about so often. To listen to their talk one would think there is nothing good in the universe and that happiness and square dealing has fled from everybody and everything.

Now, level headed, sensible people know that this isn't so. But nevertheless the poor the Bible tells about, they are always with us.

"Knockers" always have existed and I suppose they always will be on earth as long as there is an earth. It is too bad, but that is the situation and people must make the best of it.

My present trip is only semi-professional. I am not here for the purpose of settling alleged baseball trouble. I am on what I suppose might be called a baseball "eating tour." Last night I attended a baseball dinner and this evening I am to be at a dinner given by my good friends of the American Legion at Altoona, whose love for baseball everyone knows of. Tomorrow night I expect to attend a baseball dinner to be given for Bill Donovan at New Haven, Ct.

They broadcast the operas now. Which will probably cause a complete change of wardrobe. Fashion editor can now underwood as follows: Mrs. Desmond enjoyed Aida. Attired in paisley wrapper, with smudgy dust cap and knitted slippers to match, she turned over pork chops, and listened in. For jewelry she wore only a simple egg beater, and tiny suede pan. As her guest, Annie Cleanup was charming in calico bandinedown. While wringing mop, she was moved to tears by pathos of Rhadames' farewell in great cellar scene—and so on, for a column.

JACK OFFERED MILLION FOR THREE BOUTS

By THOMAS L. CUMISKEY.

New York, Jan. 25.—A million dollars for Jack Dempsey in three fight, said Tom O'Rourke, matchmaker of the Republic A. C., which has leased the Polo Grounds.

He talked to Jack Kearns, just in from Los Angeles.

"I'll submit my offer in writing tomorrow," announced O'Rourke. "It will be on a percentage basis. I will name four fighters, three of whom would fight Jack. Wills will be the main one."

"We want it, Kearns said. "Dempsey and the public wants them." cut in Kearns. "Bring in the offer, Tom."

"I hope it can be got to [illegible] Kearns, but I want to see a real, legitimate offer before I sign. I haven't seen one yet."

Manager Jack's concern seems to be who the other opponents, other than Wills, will be.

Chairman Muldoon of the New York Boxing Commission has waived aside Jess Willard, Tom Gibbons and Bill Brennan as prospects.

"I know the Wills fight must be arranged. It'll come this Summer. It must. It's too big for indoors. But I insist the champion should have a couple of fights to be in top shape for it. But how?

"If we don't get something soon, I'll take Jack over to England to fight Joe Beckett."

He also said Colonel Miller of the 101 Ranch might promote a mixed bout with Strangler Lewis in Oklahoma City.

"It can be put on there, and draw," said Kearns.

Kearns asked the newspaper men if they thought Tom Gibbons could beat Willard. There was doubt.

"Why Gibbons doesn't figure with him," said Kearns. "Harry Greb is a 2-to-1 better fighter. He proved it. Didn't he? But I haven't heard one say Greb could lick Jess. He is too small.

"I don't see why Willard, an ex-champion, demanding a return fight, can't be allowed to fight, continued the champ manager. "He's not too old. He's got a wallop of a kick. I believe the public wants it, also."

Kearns quoted Jim Jeffries as saying Dempsey was the greatest heavyweight of all.

"Ask Jeff who was the worst, and he'll tell you Corbett," declared Kearns.

"And yet Corbett was allowed to fight Sullivan who carried the big great paunch into the ring any fighter ever did, and Bob, Fitzsimmons, only a middleweight, I can't see the present way the game is run.

It was reported that Matchmaker O'Rourke [illegible] Wills has Tom Gibbons and Joe Beckett in mind, and that Willard is most probably the other. How Willard and Gibbons can figure in New York with Chairman Muldoon of the commission barring them is not clear, though. Elimination bouts may set the thing.

Kearns has an appointment with Tex Rickard today. There is considerable credence for the report that Rickard expects to put Dempsey and Willard on in Jersey City early in the Summer.

SAUGUS COACH ASSERTS THERE IS BOYCOTT

By FRED C. LANE

Charges of boycott are laid at the door of certain officials of the Massachusetts Athletic Association by Coach Fred Beresford of Saugus High School.

Beresford asserts that a member of the association has overstepped his authority in passing judgment on a case pertaining to the future athletic activities of Saugus High.

The controversy arose over the [illegible] of a four-year contract [illegible] which Saugus High would [illegible] two successive years at Mc[illegible] and Methuen in [illegible] and [illegible] Saugus would follow a [illegible]

In a letter [illegible] foot ball manager of Saugus High, the Methuen High [illegible] Coach Colwell, on the advice of John W. Hutchins, secretary of the M. H. A. A., decided to cancel all athletic events with the Saugus [illegible] because they had ceased to hold their membership in the association.

The letter follows:

Manager of Football,
Saugus High School
Dear Sir:

The secretary of the Massachusetts High School Athletic Association has recently informed me that your school has withdrawn from the athletic association and he also advises against our school playing yours.

We are supposed to play football this Fall at Saugus, but as secretary of the athletic council, I am informing you that it is their opinion that the game be called off.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) CLARENCE A. ELWELL.

Coach Beresford denies that Saugus withdrew from the association, but declares that although not a member of that association Saugus has adopted their [illegible] and he has directed his [illegible] accordingly.

When Saugus played Methuen two years ago, the name was listed in the headmasters' league, though Methuen was not a member of that body. Coach Beresford says he carried out his part of the agreement regardless of that fact.

The shoe is on the other foot now. Saugus has dropped its membership and Methuen is in the association. Coach Elwell of Methuen is very fair in the matter and is willing to fulfill his contract with Saugus regardless of the advice from those in authority. All he asks is that Saugus will continue to abide by the code of rules which Coach Beresford is willing to do.

It is [illegible] that the game can be arranged [illegible] should both these [illegible] ties [illegible] ation.

Nowa and Greenough and Country Day will have their annual meeting in the Prep School meet run under the auspices of the Massachusetts High School Athletic Association, March 3 at the East Armory.

This year's games, although the first ever attempted by those in charge, are meeting with a hearty response from the private and preschools of New England. All are in favor of the plan since the B. A. A. has dropped school events from the annual meet program.

It was decided at a [illegible] of the coaches [illegible] majority of the private schools entered that the field events must be started promptly at 1 o'clock. So the shot put and high jump will take place at that hour.

BASEBALL TOURISTS HONOR CARTWRIGHT

Honolulu, Jan. 28.—The members of the major league-Oriental baseball storming squad paid honor to the memory of Alexander Joy Cartwright, who drew up the first set of rules for organized baseball exactly 75 years ago in New York City, when he organized the Knickerbocker baseball club.

They went to Nanau cemetery, where Herbert Hunter, in charge of the tour, placed a wreath of flowers on his grave. Governor Farrington and ex-President Sanford B. Dole of the Republic of Hawaii praised Cartwright. They told how he spread baseball through the United States on his way to California in the gold rush days and later introduced the game in Hawaii.

ST. JOHN'S HOCKEY SEXTET IS WINNER

Danvers, Jan. 26.—The St. John's Prep hockey team defeated the English High six of Boston at Columbus Oval, 4 to 2.

It was the most interesting game played at Danvers this season and but for the little clever individual work of Stadel and Murray of St. John's and Nowa and Cox of visitors, the game would have been featureless.

The Danvers team scored in the first two periods. Murray made two and Stadel two.

The first score was raced after nine minutes of play. Murray received a pass out of the scrimmage and shot the goal from the side of the cage.

The Boston boys found few chances to shoot. The Danvers defence was strong and broke the attack before the puck was near the goal.

The remaining three pairs wh...h complete the list of prizes, are being Go...d or S...ver plated at the factories wher... ...are man...ctured and undoubtedly will r... ...the ... contributing sports goods stores in time to go on ...ibition late this week or early next week.

The arrival of the GOLD and SILVER SKATES and the plan to place them on exhibition will enable the nearly 1,000 skaters who will engage in the trial heats at Franklin Field, Saturday—weather permitting—an opportunity to inspect the prizes before entering the competition, and we have an idea they will be keener than ever to qualify for the final races once they have seen the prizes that are to be awarded.

The weather man's threat of a blizzard with a heavy snowfall and possibly some rain undoubtedly is worrying many of those who have entered the races. At present the ice at Franklin Field is in fair condition, and it is the plan of the Park Department to assist nature in making conditions still better for the day of the trial races. If the threatened blizzard brings only a snowfall, the snow can be cleared away, but if it should rain or thaw the trial heats will be put over until one week from Saturday.

S. Perchmutter

Early tomorrow morning the weather man will be consulted on the prospects for Saturday, and definite announcement as to whether there will be any change in the time of the races will be made in tomorrow's editions of the Boston American.

Unless such announcement appears the program already announced for Saturday will be in force.

This program follows:

9.30 a. m.—Trial heats for Boys under 14.

10.30 a. m.—Trial heats for Boys 14 to 16.

2.00 p. m.—Trial heats for Girls under 14.

2.15 p. m.—Trial heats for Girls 14 to 16.

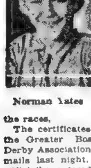
2.30 p. m.—Trial heats for Girls 16 to 18.

2.45 p. m.—Trial heats for Girls over 18.

3.00 p. m.—Trial heats for boys 16 to 18.

4.00 p. m.—Trial heats for boys 18.

Each boy or girl who filed an entry blank with the GOLD SKATES RACE EDITOR on or before January 22 should note the hour at which those of his or her age and sex are to report and be ready to take part in the trial heats when the name is called.



Norman Yates

An area opposite the starting mark will be set off, and all entrants, at the hour set for them to report, will assemble in that area and await the call to the races.

The certificates of membership to the Greater Boston Ice Skating Derby Association were placed in the mails last night. Each boy or girl officially entered in the race has been sent a certificate and unless there is some delay in the delivery all should receive them before Saturday.

The list of those who will officiate will be announced in tomorrow's Boston American.

With the score tied the two opponents fought fiercely through two extra five-minute periods, and the third period lasted ten minutes before Wall made his sensational dash for victory.

SPORT EDITORIAL

More than 6,000 fans who dodged out of the rain into the Arena last night are thinking dark, brown thoughts about the ice game and amateur sports in general. The merits of the case have nothing to do with the matter at all. The Arena management, unnotified, was not to blame. The manager of the Westminster Club claims the hockey league officials were at fault. They bat the trouble back on his shoulders.

And in the meantime, the throng that braved one of the worst nights of a tough season naturally has the "thumbs down" attitude for a sport that was rapidly becoming the leading pastime of our athletic Winter.

The whole trouble is with the league. The illusory line of demarcation between amateur and professional is never so mysterious as it is in hockey. All the statements in the world can't convince the general public that star players from the provinces come here and show three or four nights a week for the fun of it. The boys who pack the big arenas may be charitable, but that well known virtue begins at home.

Trying to run a professional pastime in amateur disguise always means bother. Hockey has become a big money proposition in these parts. It will draw as a professional sport just as well as it does now. And put on a real business b...s, there will be no ridiculous squabbles.

The hockey league at present has no more control of its members than we have. Which is none at all.

A PERFECT WIFE

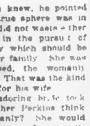
How a Little Visit Changed Her Views as to Her Duties After Twenty-five Years of Being a Model Housekeeper for a Model Husband

By Ruth Harrington

MOTHER PERKINS was the most Perfect Wife in Jones Center. Every one conceded her pre-eminence. The older women of the town nodded approval when ever her virtues were discussed, and many a Jones Center man envied the fortune of Father Perkins.



HE MARRIED A WOMAN WHO WAS WISP OF A GIRL

Nor was the credit all hers. It may be said, indeed that Father Perkins had contributed largely to her perfection. He carefully drilled her, even before their marriage, in the duties of the Perfect Wife.

This person knew, he pointed out, that her true sphere was in her home. She did not waste her on charity or in the pursuit of pleasure energy which should be expended on her family. She was calm and poised, the woman's woman always. That was the kind a man wanted for his wife.

The young, adoring bride took heed. Did Father Perkins think an act unwomanly? She would have died before performing it. Could she indulge in pleasure? Only if her kitchen was spotless, the pantry full of baked things, the house in perfect order and every conceivable want of Father Perkins imagined and provided for.

Son Married

Mother Perkins had been the Perfect Wife for twenty-five years, and might have continued to be until her sorrowing husband had carved her virtues on her tombstone if Son hadn't married.

He married a joyous wisp of a girl, who brought into the family a set of jolly, hospitable parents. And these insisted that while the young folk were honeymooning, Father and Mother Perkins should spend three weeks with them in their comfortable Summer home.

Mother Perkins liked Mrs. Allison immensely, although she had a disturbing feeling that her husband disapproved of the daughter-in-law. Mrs. Allison was charming, intelligent and amusing, as far from a drudge as the heights of Perfect Wifehood. She did not hesitate to join in a group, to enjoy herself, to argue with the men, and even to propose arguments which quite disconcerted her masculine opponents.

She had gone so far, on occasion, as to poke Father Perkins in his most tender ribs. Mother Perkins knew he disliked instinct that what was the worst thing one could do to Father Perkins.

"We're going to have the time of our lives," was Mrs. Allison's greeting as the Perkinses stepped from the train. "Two of my dearest friends are spending the Summer here, and the town has a new pastor, the boys will have to step lively to keep up with us."

"The boys," Mother Perkins gathered, were Father Perkins and Mr. Allison. She scanned her husband's face anxiously for signs of displeasure at having his dignity thus attacked. She could detect none.

The first real shock did not come, however, until several days later, when, at the luncheon table, Mrs. Allison made this startling announcement:

"We have to leave right away for that card party. We'll let the boys do the dishes."

Mother Perkins was aghast. Father Perkins do dishes!

"John wouldn't like it. I'm afraid," she hastened to protect. "He never has washed dishes, have you, John?"

"Never! He should be beginning. Many's the time Alfred has done his bit at K. P."

Alfred grinned at her affectionately. "Can't say I like it especially, but at least I always know the glasses are polished when I've washed the dishes. I'll train you right, John. These women are spoiled. It takes a man to do a real dishwashing job."

"I'm here to learn," responded John gallantly. And before she left for the party Mother Perkins viewed with mixed emotions the spectacle of her cherished husband in an apron much too small for him, wiping dirty dishes in the kitchen under the careful supervision of Mr. Allison.

The next day a picnic was scheduled. They were to leave promptly at 9 after breakfast. This time it was Father Perkins himself who suggested that he and Alfred clean up the dishes while the women were putting the finishing touches to the lunch.

Mother Perkins could hardly believe her ears. But that day she did a great deal of thinking. Indeed, that day and the succeeding ones afforded much food for thought.

Father Perkins had become habitually helpful about the house. He called Mrs. Allison by her first name—an unheard-of thing for him. Mother Perkins even decided, after having suspected and tested it out, that he purposely made formidable remarks just to draw the quick, scathing retort of his new connection.

Praised Alicia

When they were alone, Father Perkins praised constantly the good looks, the cleverness, the capability of Alicia.

A less gentle soul than Mother Perkins would have become jealous. Mother Perkins only thought—and thought. During the last week of the visit she wore a quiet, satisfied smile, as if she had come to a conclusion.

After a last hilarious picnic, at which all of them acted more like twenty-year-olds than forty-five-year-olds, the Perkinses returned to Jones Center and their staid home. Even as they stepped across the threshold the Perfect Wife could feel her husband resuming middle age and dignity. She spoke briskly and cheerily.

"John, won't you please run upstairs with these bags while I arrange things out a bit? Hester put some old clothes on, too. I want you to help me get things in order."

She could sense Father Perkins astonishment without looking at him but she went on briskly.

"Then want do you say to going down to the city for dinner, and to a show afterwards? I think we ought to celebrate a homecoming with a man or dog or girl, light-footed light hearted ("light-headed," think you, perhaps).

All things reach and look to eighteen—and beauty. As a plant in the window lifts leaves and flower faces to the sun, the boy her own age yearns for her, follows her dreams of her and, fired with adoration, makes verses that Launcelot, swinging red hair, would not be ashamed to own.

The fat boy, four years younger, forgets his supper for her sake; twenty-nine long-legged and weary, rumbling and strong of chin and shoulder, falls hard and far, and, circling his arms, sings. Oh, girl, who can sing and dance and laugh, fall into my heart.

The scholar, with the world of men and women laid open before his cool, calm eyes, and a little pet belief that his heart is as cold as the reef in the sea, with a leaning for brainy women, loses his heart and his calculating head to the lady twixt eighteen and twenty.

The artist, the baker, the broker, the poet, the boy and the man lift their dream-weaving voices and their calling hands to eighteen and twenty. Even her father's old friend, almost as old as he is, and who ought to know better, caresses his gray hair and dares to lift his weary eyes to slim girlhood.

And then, too, you see love's been fiddling on the rope and a maid's heart is warm and quick.

Being Eighteen

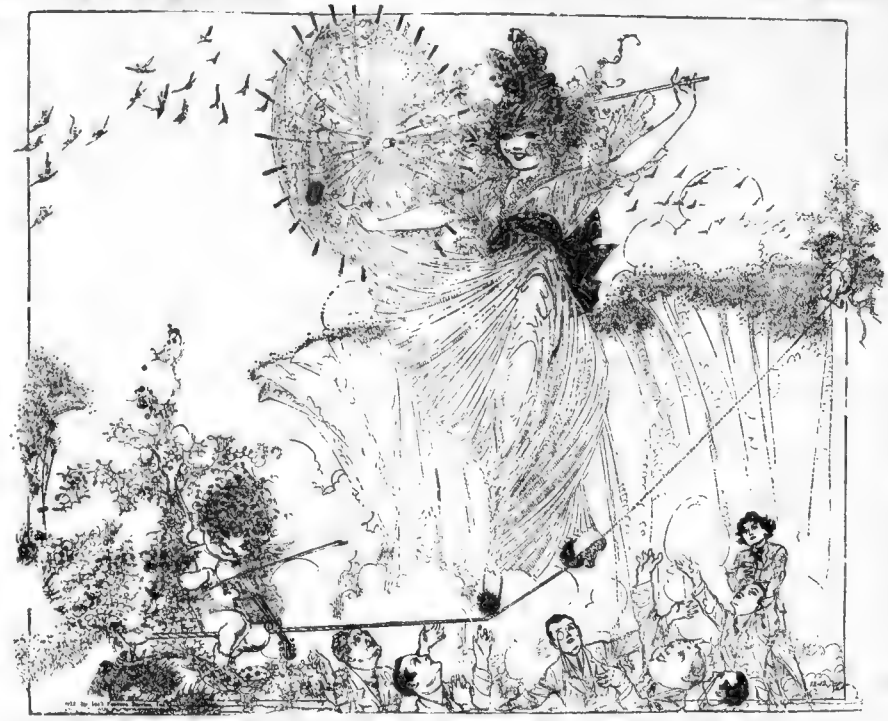
DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY



IT'S a bit of a job to walk the tight-rope from eighteen to twenty, when the girl in the story has a fresh, sweet face, the light fine step and the round arms and neck of babyhood still on her, a gift of pretty chatter that makes the sour heart that mocks her smile behind the scowl, a warm heart and a grand, fine way of chumming with a man or dog or girl, light-footed light handed, light hearted ("light-headed," think you, perhaps).

When a Girl Marries

By Ann Lisle

"OF course that's his only idea in taking you out to dinner," I replied with elaborate seriousness.

"YOU DON'T HAVE TO DISCUSS YOUR PLANS WITH ME DEAR"

But, greatly to my own relief, after I'd said this and couldn't take it back, I found that I'd gone right over Miss May's unself-conscious head.

"I'm glad he's helping you. We've too much by far to do," I said. "I've a plan for getting us assistance. It isn't well enough along to talk about—"

"You don't have to discuss your plans with me, dear," replied Miss May gently. "The authority I have here is your gift—nothing less. And you will never hurt me if you find it necessary to treat me like the secretary, which is all I am. I'm hired help, really."

That Hurts

"Please!" I cried. "That hurts. You're my partner. Perhaps in the beginning it came as a present. But I know now it wasn't sentiment that inspired me. It was cold-blooded judgment. I proved I had real business acumen when I roped you into the responsible job of being my partner. And that's what you are. But as I still control the voting majority of the stock, I'm going to railroad another partner in, and ask you to trust that my judgment will be good again. I may even get in a green hand and ask you—"

"To break her in?" asked Miss May at a high pitch of excitement. "Oh, that would be too wonderful! It would make me feel worth my salt—"

"And pepper, I should say," I replied. "I think you earn about all the other condiments to sauce this—bird of a business perfect!"

Miss May giggled at my slang and I rushed ahead with all the vigor at my command.

Floundering Around

"You see, dear, you're handling two accounts and I'm floundering around in the morasses of two others, and both of us are swamped by details of bookkeeping and planning executive and executive stuff. We need someone to keep records and files and to straighten out bills and credits. Each of us could handle three accounts if we were relieved of some of the detail work. So that's why I'm watching around, looking for the right woman. And when I get her I'm counting on you to help me prove she's all I say she is."

"Count on me," replied Miss May, getting to her feet and holding out her hand.

As we gripped hands I smiled down at her—no longer a grain of dust, but a tiny Tanagra figurine, a dresden creature of delicate tracery. I wondered if she would be as easily broken—relegated again to fragments, even to dust.

As I went down the stairs I saw Max Hoadley coming up. His burliness blocked off the stairs in the twilight. An ugly memory of one terrible evening when Tony's return saved me from his unwelcome attentions came to terrify me. Without willing my movements, I turned to go back. But Max Hoadley was quicker of mind. As he called good evening, he put out his hand and laid it on my sleeve, keeping it there long enough to—

LAND O' DREAMS

NEW SERIES BY NOTED PSYCHO-ANALYST

By Hereward Carrington, Ph. D.

Noted Writer and Author of Works on Psycho-Analysis.

WHAT are your "dream eyes"? In other words WITH WHAT do you see in your dreams and with what do you not?

Have you ever thought of this problem? Certainly you do not see with your physical eyes, since our eyelids are closed and the eyeballs are turned upward when we sleep. Your physical body is lying at rest, and you see clearly, vividly a series of scenes, and also people, with whom you occasionally converse. But if you do not see them with your physical eyes, with what do you see them? Here, surely, is a problem for you to ponder over.

Most dreams are visual, that is, after an I have before pointed out. We see far more often than we smell, taste or touch. This corresponds to our experiences in waking life, for our sight plays a far greater role than any of the other senses. Our imagination is mostly visual.

When we imagine any series of events as taking place, these events usually float before the mind's eye in the form of a series of pictures—giving rise probably, to the old expression "building castles in Spain." The mind, therefore, has somehow developed within itself this picture-forming faculty, and vividly depicts to itself a series of scenes, as in a mirror, which may be colored or shadow like.

This faculty is known as "visualization," and is so vivid in certain cases that the mental pictures take on the character of objective things, in which case they constitute what we call "Hallucinations."

Crystal visions are of this character, for the figures seen in the crystal ball do not, of course, exist in the ball but in the mind of the seer. They are merely projected outwards and are so vivid in character that they appear actually to exist in space—in such cases as in the ball.

This power of imagination is itself a very extraordinary faculty and it has been pointed out that it is a projection into the future by the mind, just as memory is a projection into the past. We can imagine ourselves as enacting various scenes, and can even imagine various persons, who never actually existed, playing their varied roles in this little drama. This occurs in day dreaming and also in the ordinary dreams of night.

If, however, the scenes which we perceive in actuality correspond with events which are happening at the time, we can then no longer dismiss them as a "mere imagination"; but if they are detailed enough, must assume telepathic or other supernormal agency at work. It has been suggested that imagination is really a play of the astral senses, and that when we "imagine" a certain thing, we really see that thing enacted on another plane of being. But this, of course, is a purely occult theory, which is not accepted by orthodox psychology.

At all events, it is a most interesting problem which confronts us here. How we see in our dreams is part of a larger question; how the mind can build-up these mental pictures for itself in any case. This has never been satisfactorily explained, and, until this is done, we can have small hope that the lesser understood manifestations occurring in dreams will be explained either!

(In his next article the writer will treat of prophetic dreams.)

GENIUS AND HABIT

HOW ONE IS RELATED TO THE OTHER

By Wm. A. McKeever,

Widely Known Lecturer and Author and a National Authority on Juvenile Problems.

PARENTS should know that the men and women of large ability are people whose lives are thoroughly regulated by habit. Accordingly, they should begin early to teach their children to become masters through the power of habit.

Every good habit your child acquires adds to the strength of his whole character and to his power of achievement. Recently I watched a small railway engine start a train of eighty freight cars. It first backed as far as possible, then started the first car. The force of this first motion was added to that of the engine and these two started the second car. It was not the engine alone, but the engine plus one, plus two, plus three cars, and so on, which constituted the whole force.

Now, you help your child draw an increased life load plays a tremendous part in the formation of a good habit. And, of course, the bad ones pull back to the same degree. They are the box cars with the brakes on, stalling the whole train.

When we examine a good successful career as to its regulated habits we find that regulation centres around a few simple daily efforts—simple eating, restricted drinking, regular exercise, measured sleep, controlled thinking. Indeed, we find invariably that the big life is the mark of some man or woman, who lives a routine of modest frugality, about that which might be expected of a mere peasant.

It is the unregulated life which soon goes on the rocks. All around me I see youths born with the inheritance of splendid genius who are practically throwing away a possible brilliant career through unregulated daily conduct and dissipation.

Strange as it may seem to the misled youth, there is nothing which will net more pure joy and sense of wellbeing in the future, than a system of well regulated and well controlled habits of daily behavior. If you can but teach him how to control his appetites, if you can but teach him to regulate his hours so as to be at home certain specified nights every week; if you can but teach him how to find joy in a quiet evening with his books; if you can but teach him to enjoy regularly a certain amount of spiritual poise on the Sabbath—then, your son or daughter, as the discussion applies to both sexes—will grunt tremendously from the lessons so imparted.

The more I study successful men and women the more I am convinced that it is not special genius which distinguishes them from the common crowd, but rather a well regulated system of habits of daily conduct.

Finally, above all, the little positive well regulated habits of the successful person, I find this one standing out unfailing and conspicuous, namely, the habit of hard work.

How To Sleep On A Bare Floor

IT is more a matter of SLEEP, than of bed or board.

Some people can sleep sitting up, standing up, even while walking.

Many people can't sleep in the softest of downy beds; and all of us suffer occasionally from nervousness, wearing, tiring wakefulness at night.

There is always a reason for sleeplessness. Usually, it is a "sour" stomach, a liver that has "gone down" on the job, constipated bowels, or biliousness.

Then, just before retiring, take Beecham's Pills. They soothe an uneasy stomach, encourage the organs of digestion and elimination to natural activity, and assure restful sleep no matter what!

THE PRIDE OF PALOMAR By PETER B. KYNE

An Engrossing Story of Southern California by the Author of "Kindred of the Dust"

Struggle of the Last of an Ancient Line to Save Estate From Hands of Japanese

START THIS NEW STORY TODAY

The story opens on the Rancho Palomar, an extensive tract in Southern California. Old Don Miguel Farrel, alone on the heavily mortgaged rancho with only his last faithful retainer, Pablo Artelan, and the latter's expansive wife, receives a telegram from the War Department at Washington announcing the death in battle in Siberia of his only son, "Don Mike." The shock kills him. Don Mike arrives and finds a family of Parkers there, including a beautiful daughter, Kay. Mr. Parker is scheming to get the ranch and sell it to the Japanese. Don Mike asks him to bid on it and then refuses to sell. Kay gives Bill Conway money to go on building a dam on the ranch. She becomes jealous of a girl neighbor of Don Mike's.

It is a Cosmopolitan Production, direction of Frank Borzage, and featuring Forrest Stanley and Marjorie Daw. It is released as a Paramount picture.

"I DID, Kate. I do," Parker replied. "If I win, my victory will prove to my entire satisfaction that Don Miguel Jose Federico Noriaga Farrel is a throwback to the Mazana family, and in that event, my dear, we will not want him in ours. We ought to improve our blood lines, not deteriorate them."

"Yet you would have sold this valley to that creature Okada."

"Farrel has convinced me of my error there. I have been anti-Jap since the day Farrel was thrown from his horse and almost killed—by a Jap."

"I'm sure Kay is in love with him, John."

"Propinquity," he grunted.

"Fiddlesticks! The man is perfectly charming."

"Perhaps. We'll decide that point later. Do you think Farrel is interested in Kay?"

"I do not know, John," his better half declared hopelessly. "If he is, he possesses the ability to conceal it admirably."

"I'll bet he's a good poker player. He has you guessing, old girl, and the man who does that is a rara avis. However, Katie dear, if I were you I wouldn't worry about this—er—affair."

"John, I can't help it. Naturally I'm curious to know the thoughts in the back of that boy's head, but when he turns that smiling innocent face toward me, all I can see is old-fashioned deference and amiability and courtesy. I watch him when he's talking to Kay—when he cannot possibly know I am snooping, and still, except for that frank friendliness, his face is as communicative as this old adobe wall. A few days ago he rode in from the range with a great cluster of wild tiger lilies—and he presented them to me. Any other young man would have presented them to my daughter."

"I give it up, Kate, and suggest that we turn this mystery over to Father Time. He'll solve it."

"But I don't want Kay to fall in love with Don Mike if he isn't going to fall in love with her," she protested, in her earnestness raising her voice, as was frequently her habit.

"Senora," he said gravely, "Ef I am you I don' worry very much about those boy. Before hee's pretty parteecular. All those high tone' senorita in El Toro she give eet the sweet look to Don Miguel jus' the same like thees——" Here Pablo relaxed his old body, permitted his head to loll sideways and his lower jaw to hang slackly, the while his bloodshot eyes gazed amorously into the branches of the catalpa tree. "But those boy he don't pay some attention. Hee's give beeg smile to these senorita, beeg smile to thees one, beeg smile to that one, beeg smile for all the mama, but for the querida I tell to you Don Miguel hee's pretty parteecular. I theenk to myself—Carolina, too—'Look here, Pablo. What he ees the matter weeth those boy?' I theenk mebbeso those boy she's goin' be old bach. W[illegible] matter here? When I am twenty eight anos my oldes' boy already hee's bust one bronco'." Here Pablo paused to scratch his [illegible] "But now," he resumed, "by the blood of those devil I know somotheeng."

"What do you know, you [illegible]?" Parker [illegible] with [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] answered with just the correct shade of deprecation. "but long time ago [illegible] my heart—going make barbecue [illegible] Don Miguel [illegible] [illegible] Santa Ana [illegible]"

Parker crooked his finger, and [illegible]

"How do you know all this, Pablo?"

Great Moment Arrived

Pablo's great moment had arrived. Lowly peon that he was, he knew himself at this moment to be a [illegible] personage [illegible] to the weakness of having failed to take advantage of it.

"Why I know, Senor Parker?" Pablo laughed briefly, lightly, mirthlessly, his cachinnation carefully designed to convey the impression that he considered the question extremely [illegible]. With exasperating [illegible] he drew forth his little bag of tobacco and a brown cigarette paper [illegible] of tobacco [illegible] the top with his [illegible] he gazed out upon the [illegible] [illegible] all eyes.

He answered his own question. "[illegible] I tell you. For [illegible] for nothing, those boy he poke weeth hee's thumb the rib of me."

"No!" cried John Parker, feigning profound amazement.

"Apparently."

"You bet you my life. Wall, [illegible] hee's [illegible] weeth hee's thumb an' theese finger [illegible]"

Pablo wiped away with a saddle-colored paw a benignant and [illegible] He wagged his [illegible] on the [illegible] that was his.

"[illegible] dramatic [illegible] tell to Don Miguel three things I [illegible] my throat."

"We will respect your confidence, Pablo," Mrs. Parker hastened to assure him.

"All right. Then I tell to you what those boy peench—weeth hees thumb an' these fingair, Mrs. Like these."

"Cut out the pantomime and disgorge the information, for the love of heaven," Parker pleaded.

"He peench"—Pablo's voice rose to a pseudo-feminine screech—"the check of"—he whirled upon Mrs. Parker and transfixed her with a tobacco-stained index finger—"Senora Parker, so help me by Jimmy, ef I tell you something I hope I die pretty queeck."

Both Stared

"He peench—queeck—like that. He don' know hee's goin for peench—hees all time queeck like that he don theenk. But after those boy hee's peench the cheek of those girl, hee's got red in the [illegible] he says [illegible] an' he run away queeck before he forgot heemself an' peench those girl some more."

[illegible] turned gravely to his wife. "Old hon," he murmured, "[illegible] Don Mike Farrel is a [illegible] [illegible] he was [illegible]"

"Oh, John dear, I'm so glad." There were tears in Mrs. Parker's eyes. "A[illegible]"

"No, I'm not," he replied [illegible] age [illegible] an orphan and I'd speak to Farrel about it [illegible] nobody [illegible] of permitting his fancy to wander in that direction."

"Oh, Parker, you're a hard hearted man," she cried and left [illegible] high dudgeon to disappear into the garden. As the gate closed behind her, John Parker drew forth his pocket [illegible] and abstracted from it a hundred-dollar [illegible] Pablo [illegible]

"We have had our little differences, Pablo," he informed the [illegible] were [illegible] toward a true spirit of brotherly love. In the language of the [illegible], Pablo, [illegible] to tell the cock-eyed world that you're one good [illegible]

[illegible] the ways of the Gringo were many and mysterious. Today one hated him, tomorrow——

"There is no doubt about it," Pablo soliloquized, "it is better to be the head of a mouse than the tail of a lion."

A RHYMING OPTIMIST

—By Aline Michaelis—

"I SOMETIMES think," said Hiram Slow, "Samantha's far too neat, with all this fuss and furbelow, a man can't rest his feet. Soft cushions lie about indoors, as tempting as can be but when I've finished all my chores, say, are they meant for me? No sir, she says I'd muss them up to lay my head on those; she shoos me off like Tiger, the pup, when I would like to doze. It's great to have thing spic and span for women folks, I guess, but as for me, I think a man enjoys a little mess. Of course that time will never come; but still, it would be fine to see things sort of out of plumb in this old home of mine."

IF RHEUMATIC BEGIN ON SALTS

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Take Jad Salts

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids.

Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood from this impurity. In damp and chilly weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove body waste; also to stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

BE SURE TO READ THEM TO CHILDREN

By Blanche Silver

Doris Learns About Butterflies

ONE day when Doris was on a visit to her aunt in Mexico she was out walking in the woods, when she spied a queer-looking object hanging from the branches in a tree.

"Well, if that doesn't look just like a bottle as sure as I'm alive," she mused. "But, of course, it isn't. It's shaped just like one—only it's brown. What do you suppose it is? Oh, dear! If I were back home I'd wish for Squeedee—"

The branches of the tree above her rustled, and out of them bounced the dear little elfin for whom she had been wishing.

"Goodness me!" he laughed merrily when he could right himself on the ground. "I wish you wouldn't wish for me so quickly. I was working and before I knew what was going on I found myself sailing through the air, and here I am, way down in Mexico. What's wrong?"

"Oh, my goodness, Squeedee!" Doris exclaimed. "You surely do look mussed up. I'm sorry if I wished at the wrong time."

"Wrong time?" laughed Squeedee. "There is no wrong time in Joyland, only it took me by surprise. What happened to make you think of me?"

"Why, you old dear," replied Doris, "I just this second discovered that funny-looking bottle hanging up in the tree and wondered who could have swung it there." She pointed to the queerly-shaped thing swinging from the branch above their heads.

"Well, of all things," laughed Squeedee. "That's certainly the laziest family I've seen in a long time. It's a good thing you called for me or something might have happened to that crowd. That's Mrs. Caterpiller's cradle.

"One day I saw a crowd of tiny caterpillars all gathered on that limb. They were quarrelling and fussing so much that I went over to see what was the trouble."

"And what was the matter?" asked Doris. "I suppose they all wanted the queerly-shaped bottle?"

"That's the trouble," laughed the elfin. "There wasn't any bottle there then. They needed a home, and no one wanted to give up that spot to the other. They all wanted the same limb. So after talking to them a long time I got them to build one large house. That's it. But goodness! They should be up by now."

And quick as a wink he and Doris flew up to the strange-looking nest. Squeedee rapped on its side.

"Wake up, you sleepy heads!" he cried, and Doris could hear a queer noise inside. A circular door in the very bottom opened and a [illegible] out.

"What Do You Suppose It Is?"

"My goodness, but it's hard work hanging up by one's tail all this time." She stopped suddenly and glanced down at herself, then began to laugh. "Sure enough, Squeedee you did tell me I'd lose my tail. I have." She laughed so merrily all her brothers and sisters tumbled out of the doorway after her. Every one of them was a pretty little butterfly. They had gone to sleep caterpillars and had awakened pretty butterflies.

Doris examined their home after they had dried their wings so they could fly. Squeedee helped her take it down from the branch, and she carried it home to show her aunt.

MAKING OTHERS HAPPY

HOW TO GIVE WITH REAL APPRECIATION

By Beatrice Fairfax

Who Occupies a Unique Position in the Writing World as an Authority on the Problems of Girls

"SOMEONE gave me a bag of hickory nuts for Christmas," said Lillian. "And though Christmas is long past, I have not forgotten it yet. You see, I'm fonder of hickory nuts than of fruit or candy or of any of the other treats that other girls like so well. And someone remembered and sent me the homely little offering that meant thought and consideration. I can't tell you how it made me feel."

Alma smiled understandingly.

"Someone sent me a bunch of mistletoe from down South. Such big shiny, white berries and soft green leaves. I loved it"——

Then Grace spoke superciliously.

"Such funny little things. I hope Santa treated you better than that. I had four bottles of French perfume, half a dozen pairs of the cobwebbiest silk stockings, a chain of clouded amber beads, a green enamel cigarette case, a black moire bag with marquisette top, a portable phonograph and too many others to mention."

"Those were all lovely things, Grace. I'm so glad you have them since they mean so much to you."

Then Grace cried out in astonishment at her own discovery.

"But I'm not sure they do! All those things came from rich people who just went into stores and bought the first things they came across. Maybe your hickory nuts and Alma's mistletoe meant more—really."

I believe they did.

At Christmas—or any other time of the year—the things which mean most to us are not the lavish and ofttimes casual offerings of those who give formally just because it is a holiday or a birthday or an "occasion" of some sort. The gifts which touch our hearts are those which have something of the giver in them and something of his loving intelligent understanding of our desires.

Gifts and thoughts alike may be superb and yet mean very little to the recipient. The lavish gift shows the purchaser's power of wealth, his generosity and sometimes his thoughtfulness as well. But the tiny offering which is a token of thought and sympathy leaves no sense of panicky obligation—it awakes and expresses the gentle understanding which we all crave.

The things that touch us most as we go through life are honest expressions of good-will. And good will is not offering you something I think you ought to have, but it is finding out what you yearn for and trying to help you make your dream come true.

Let us all remember that to give generously is to give with an honest regard for the taste, the desires and the dreams of the one we are trying to make happy—and not to endow.

GIFTS MADE AT HOME

By Rita Stuyvesant

IT is always well to pick out useful gifts for birthdays and other occasions. You will be delighted at the dainty gifts of hand work you can make during your spare hours if you are at all handy with the needle. Lace, ends of silk and satin, odd pieces of lace, a few French flowers, a length of beautiful ribbon, may easily be created into a gift of beauty with a personal touch that no bought gift may acquire.

It is very simple to make a beautiful bed light which any bride will appreciate. The frame may be dirigible shape, or the new bell effect. Both of these frames have a projection to attach to the back of the bed, making it comfortable to lie abed and read. The materials and trimmings for such a light may be purchased ready cut in an envelope, or you may make your own selection. Almost all the big shops are giving free instruction in this type of work.

Not only could you make dainty boudoir lamps and light shades from such exquisite colors as orchid, peach, apricot, tearose or the lovely French tan shades and from such fabrics as georgette, shaded taffeta, silk over gold lace, or silver netting, but also make pretty pillows and telephone dolls as well.

A simple little gift is a boudoir bandeau to take the place of the boudoir cap. A strip of ribbon long enough to tie around the head with a bow in the back is edged for eight inches with fine lace. A few French flowers or other trimmings may be used.

The dainty woman will appreciate a soft powder puff attached to a long handle for powdering her back after the bath.

ETIQUETTE POINTERS

—By Ann Adams—

DEAR MISS ADAMS:

After a quarrel over the telephone with a friend I lost my temper and hung up the receiver. Is it my place to call him back and apologize? My brother says that he will call me again if he is anxious to make up.

WORRIED.

Answer: It is your duty to take the first step in patching up the break caused by your own rudeness. I would suggest that you write the young man a friendly note, showing him that you are really sincere and that you regret having lost your temper that evening. This will give him an opportunity to consider your apology before replying and will serve better to mend the break.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Are the big some times inclined to regard the little as unimportant? Are metropolitan cities like New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Detroit and St. Louis apt to understate the vitally important part played in our national life by smaller cities and towns and communities? The fact is, of course, that these smaller places constitute the very backbone of our Commonwealth.

• • •

I suggested some little time ago that it might be useful and educative to present [illegible] this column authoritative facts and figures describing conditions [illegible] different parts of the [illegible]. The response showed clearly that such information would be welcomed.

I wonder if Northerners grasp the full extent of the regeneration under way throughout the South? I wonder if we realize adequately the remarkable progress industrially made by our fellow citizens in the South? I wonder, too, if the measure of the recovery that has been going on during the last year in the South has been fully understood by the rest of our people?

• • •

Let me today tell you something about the status and the progress of one southern city, Memphis, Tenn., and ask you to visualize the aim ar advancement made by other southern centres.

• • •

It will probably astonish you to know that this Mississippi River city of 190,000 souls leads the world in these fields:

Largest manufacturer of cotton seed products.

Largest producer of high grade veneers.

Largest output of knocked-down automobile wheels.

Country's chief producer of aspirin.

Memphis shows a gain of 33 per cent. in the value of its manufactured products during the last five years, the total now reaching $117,717,823.

Favored geographically and blessed with an abundance of raw materials at its doors, Memphis has a total of 400 manufacturing establishments, employing 32,000 wage earners, one-third of them skilled workmen. These plants represent a capital investment of $67,107,484. Twenty-four factories each turn out every year products valued at $1,000,000,000 or more.

• • •

The principal manufactures of this Tennessee city are cotton seed oil [illegible] and [illegible] products, carriages and wagons, bread and bakery products, [illegible] medicines [illegible] drug [illegible] food preparations [illegible] mill products, [illegible] chine shop products [illegible] and springs [illegible] ness, paints, automobile bodies and parts, bags, railway cars, cooperage, furniture stuff and tobacco products [illegible] agricultural implements [illegible] limbs, awnings and tents [illegible] and cartons [illegible] fertilizer and dental goods.

• • •

In the heart of the greatest hardwood lumber area in America, Memphis has twenty-eight large mills which produce annually 300,000,000 ft. of lumber. The railroads give transit arrangements whereby rough lumber may be stopped in for yardage, storage or to be finished, and then shipped on to destination with six months on a through rate from point of origin.

• • •

The largest plant in the world making knocked down auto wheels is located in Memphis. Its daily output is 1,600 wheels.

• • •

Thirteen cotton seed oil mills crush an average of 300,000 tons of cotton seed a year. They manufacture oil, meal, cake, hulls and linters. Here again, raw material is plentiful, Memphis being in the heart of the cotton belt. Four companies are engaged in the refining of oil and the making of compound lard, cooking oils, soap stocks and other by-products.

• • •

Demand for mixed feeds has opened up a new field for manufacture in the South and twelve companies are engaged in this line at Memphis. The manufacturers buy peas, corn, clover, soy beans and other feed crops locally and bring in black strap molasses by barge from Cuba. The annual output of mixed feed is estimated at 350,000 tons, worth $20,000,000.

• • •

Rated as the largest drug market in the South, Memphis produces annually $4,000,000 of pharmaceutical supplies. This includes about 70 per cent. of aspirin consumed in the United States.

The largest plant south of Chicago for manufacturing railroad and highway bridges and aqueducts, railroad turntables and structural materials for sugar factories, cottonseed storage houses and office buildings is located at Memphis. So are the largest cracker factory south of the Ohio River, the largest cotton seed oil mill in the world, and a huge snuff factory.

Stocks affected last week by such a Bay State ruling were: Pittsfield Lime & Stone Company, Triplex Furniture Company, Prefex Manufacturing Company, Norwood Engineering Company and The Pathfinder Syndicate. Action of department was based upon failure to file with the commission certain information required by it under Sale of Securities Act.

LIGGETT & MYERS DEB 7s.

To V. T T., Harrison avenue—Liggett & Myers Tobacco has an excellent earning record. In the last ten years or so interest charges on its funded debt have been earned at least three times, and as much as five times annually. That is why Liggett & Myers debenture 7s, 1944, sell at a premium. Outstanding in the amount $14,261,000, they are a direct obligation not secured by mortgage. Issued in $1,000 denomination, they yield nearly 6 per cent. Interest April and October. A sinking fund of $150,000 a year is provided for buying bonds at not more than 130. The debenture 5s, 1951, are outstanding in the amount of $15,059,000. They are also in $1,000 denomination. Interest February and August. Like the 7s, they are not secured by mortgage, but a charge is imposed in favor, first, of the 7s and secondly of the 5s on all property, net income, earnings and profits. No mortgage will be placed on the property, business or income unless it recognizes these charges as prior claims.

CROSS CURRENTS IN LIBERTY BOND MART

Liberty bond market is so full of cross currents that even specialists admit they are puzzled and hardly know what to expect in the near future. Some dealers think the market will continue near the present levels, others look for higher quotations. According to one dealer, the Treasury note issue of Jan. 15 checked a forward movement, and prospect of another offering of either notes or bonds within 60 days will prevent any great strength for a while.

Stocks were mostly firm in the New York market today with oils and steels most active. Money renewed at 4½ per cent. Beechnut, which sagged more than four points yesterday, enjoyed a recovery of over two points.

TRADE OUTLOOK CONTINUES TO BE ROSY

Action of the market leaders during the past few days has demonstrated that desirable stocks are in strong hands. There has been no stampeding in Wall Street because of the series of crises in the Ruhr.

Europe's cry of "Wolf wolf!" has been heard so often that it now falls on American ears that are, though not deaf, at least discriminating.

We recognize the menace, but refuse to be frightened before we are hurt.

Offsetting the situation overseas, we find that the domestic business outlook continues to be rosy. Authoritative trade reports are uniformly optimistic.

Our New England mills are working around normal and New England capital is prepared for expansion in the South to take advantage of the labor situation in that section.

The steel industry is enjoying prosperity. The carriers are likely to come into the market shortly for large rail purchases.

Money rates, though believed to be mildly on the upgrade, continue comfortable.

U. S. TOBACCO CO. PLANS STOCK BONUS

Special meeting of United States Tobacco Co. shareholders is called for March 6, same day as annual meeting, to vote on proposal to increase authorized common to 600,000 no par shares from 360,000 shares. There are outstanding 317,952 common shares. Additional stock is being sought for purpose of permitting consideration of 20 per cent. stock dividend in common on common shares.

CHEMICAL EXPOSITION PLANS ARE CANCELLED

Drug and Chemical Markets says: "The Chemical Salesmen's Association issued a report by a special committee who announced that the backers of the plan to hold a co-operative Chemical Exposition have cancelled the plans for 1923, leaving the International Exposition Company alone in the field again. Mr. Payne, president, offers $5,000 of the receipts this year for educational purposes."

LITTLE SELLING IN LONG STOCKS

From computations made in banking circles of the present total of brokers' loans, it is evident that there has been very little liquidation of long stocks in the past three weeks. Prices of most stocks have not advanced far enough for profit taking and the bulls are hanging tenaciously to the stocks which they have carried over the year end.

Last November it was estimated that brokers' loans aggregated about two billion dollars, from which point they dropped to $1,800,000,000 in the last week of December and have remained unchanged.

Whatever selling has been done in the meantime has been for professional account, a process which was described in one office as "taking in each other's washing."

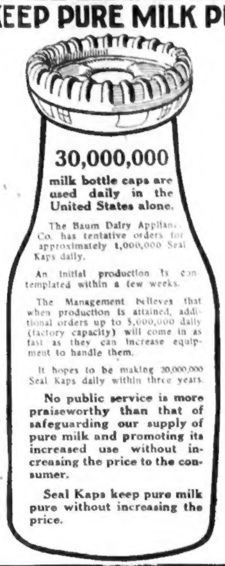
SEAL KAPS
KEEP PURE MILK PURE



BAUM DAIRY APPLIANCE CO.
(Owners of the patents on and manufacturers of Seal Kaps)
Capitalization $600,000
Divided 120,000 shares, all common
100,000 shares outstanding and to be outstanding, including the issue we are selling.

SEAL KAPS (heavy paper product) are a ONE-PIECE SANITARY cap or top for milk bottles. They effectually seal the bottle and protect the pouring rim from outside contamination.

SEAL KAPS, after sterilization, are never touched by hand in the process of manufacture, packing, shipping or affixing to the bottle by dealers. They are really sanitary.

SEAL KAPS are the only sanitary cap made, capable of being affixed to the bottle automatically and in conjunction with the filling operation of the standard power filling machines with which most large dealers are already equipped. The cost of the necessary attachment is nominal. Hand Seal Kappers are made for small dealers.

The thoughtful investor already knows that the unsupported leaking disc is not only a nuisance but is an actual menace to the public health. By a careful examination the same investor will immediately recognize the positive sanitary value and the splendid utility features of a Seal Kap, both of which are wonderful correctives.

Following then, the fact becomes significant that 30,000,000 milk bottle caps are used daily in the United States alone. Then the realization dawns that here is another phenomenal fortune making industry so much sought for by investors and so often missed, except by those who have the judgment to determine and the will to accept the opportunity when it does come AT ITS INCEPTION.

Three years of intelligent effort culminating in a series of patents precede what are now proven mechanical successes. We are demonstrating in our office a standard power milk filling machine with a Baum Dairy Appliance Co. Seal Kapper attached, actually filling and capping the bottles in one continuous operation. It is surprisingly practical and wonderfully ingenious.

We invite and urge you to come and see it. It is worth while. If unable to call, write for a full descriptive illustrated circular and a Sample Seal Kap.

RAIL STOCKS TO BEAR WATCHING FOR UPTURN

By W. S. COUSINS

Copyright, 1923, by Cosmopolitan News Service

Watch the railroad stocks.

This is the slogan of the majority of interested groups who are carefully scrutinizing every sale that comes over the ticker in the brokerage offices these days. The rails are accepted as the one best bet to draw the market out of the doldrums into which it has been thrown by the European complications.

The bulls in the rails were never more sure of their position than they appear to be today and find no difficulty in enumerating from one to ten positive reasons why the whole railroad list, and their own favorites in particular, should command much higher prices.

Strange to say, the movement of prices of the railroad shares over the past few months has been directly opposite to the seeming trend of developments of the carrier companies. We have it on the authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the American Railway Association that the present scale of carloadings are exceeding all records and that the railroad managers are making excellent progress in preparing their roads for greater things to come. Watch the rails.

IMPRISONMENT FOR DOCTORS IN DOPE DRIVE

Regarding physicians who violate narcotic laws as more of a menace than street pedlars of dope, William D. Allen, Jr., the new head of the narcotic department for the New England District, has started a drive against medical offenders.

He threatens to exact the maximum penalty in the cases of all medical men guilty of illicit activities in the dispensing of drugs. Mr. Allen, successor to Dr. Erwin C. Ruth, comes direct from Hawaii. Alive to the enormity of the drug traffic, he issued public invitation today to all civic and fraternal organizations to co-operate with him in the war against one of the most sinister of modern evils.

He says that all information will be confidentially treated at his headquarters, Room 746, No. 260 Devonshire street. He says addicts who desire to break themselves of the habit will be given all possible aid by his bureau.

"Doctors who supply prescriptions to drug addicts are in the same class as street pedlars of dope and should be sternly treated," said Mr. Allen today. "There are a number of doctors now being investigated.

"We do not propose to be lenient with physicians, many of whom hitherto got off with cash compromises because of the cloak of their profession. We shall demand maximum cash fines and jail sentences when the facts warrant."

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Wyeth's Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. Just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

TO OFFER TURKS TREATY WITH ULTIMATUM

Lausanne, Jan. 25 (By International News Service).—The allies will present the draft of a Near East peace treaty to the Turks next Wednesday, which must be signed or rejected forthwith. It was officially announced today the Near East conference is expected to end two days later.

Lausanne, Jan. 25 (By the Associated Press).—Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary and head of the British delegation in the Near East conference, wrote today to the secretary of the League of Nations asking the council of the league at its next meeting to take up the question of the Mosul District, the valuable oil region, possession of which is in dispute between the British and the Turks.

The Mosul question, Lord Curzon's letter declares, is a menace to peace. The British government will have a representative at the council meeting to make a full statement of the case, the letter added.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles Conquered or Money Back

For 40 years, said Dr. Carey, I have been prescribing my Prescription No. 777 (known for years as Marshrool) for kidney and bladder sickness and now that I have retired from active practice I have made arrangements with leading druggists to dispense this wonderful prescription at a moderate price on the money back if not satisfied plan.

Beware of kidney disease—thousands die of it every year who ought to be enjoying the blessings of life and health. Watch the symptoms—if you have backache floating before the eyes, puffy eyes, cranny feet or moist palms, backache or nervousness, you ought to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's famous prescription No. 777 right away.

This wonderfully benefited tens of thousands of sufferers of kidney and bladder trouble and in the medicine you can always depend upon. Results are guaranteed.

NOTE—Dr. Daniel G. Carey was a practising physician for many years and his great Prescription No. 777 aided thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. Hereafter you can always get this same prescription in both liquid and tablet form at Epstein Drug Co., Armstrong Co. stores and all reliable pharmacists the country over.

BOSTON ACTRESS TO COMBINE HUSBAND WITH CAREER

PAMELIA B. GIFFORD

After taking part in gay stage openings ever since her debut in fusion last year, it looks as if nineteen-year-old Pamelia Bradford Gifford, pretty little Hub actress and descendant of an old New England family, intends to have a real honest-goodness elopement of her own.

Pamelia and Cullen Franklin Crookshank, thirty-nine-year-old Broadway theatrical manager, appeared in Providence and took out a marriage license without telling a soul about their intentions.

"It looks as if Pamelia is trying to put something over on us," said her brother, John Gifford, at the Gifford apartments at No. 1230 Commonwealth avenue. "She hasn't told us a word about it. It is surely a surprise."

On the occasion of the little actress' debut in the "Take It From Me" company in Boston last year, she emphatically declared that "She wasn't particularly interested in marriage" and wouldn't be "for a long, long time" until she made a name for herself in musical comedy.

Concerning careers and husbands she advised that careers and husbands could be conveniently combined, but, added the curly haired Pamelia:

"I don't believe that a girl should marry until she is on the road to success in her profession. But after she gets well started a career and a husband certainly can be combined."

"She would never give up the stage," said members of her family.

So the all sufficient time must have come when Miss Gifford feels that she can manage both the stage and a husband.

BISHOP MANN CONSECRATED IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 25.—The Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann today was consecrated bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church to which place he was called from the rectorship of Trinity Church, Boston.

Services were held in Trinity Church in the presence of a distinguished company of clergymen and laymen, which included members of the city and State government.

The presiding bishop was the Right Rev. Cameron Mann of South Florida, brother of the new bishop. The sermon was delivered by Bishop William Lawrence of Massachusetts, who took for his text "He Hath Given Us the Ministry of Reconciliation."

A party of Bishop Mann's former Boston parishioners were interested spectators. The diocese over which Bishop Mann will preside covers ten counties in western Pennsylvania with a population of 1,100,000. He is the third bishop of Pittsburgh and was elected to that position November 15, succeeding Bishop Cortland Whitehead.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulate circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warming tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

Better than a mustard plaster

Asserts 'Octoplasm' Is So Un-Spiritual It 'Can Be Chewed'

New York, Jan. 25.—"Octoplasm" is so un-spiritual that it "can be chewed and swallowed," and spiritual photography is "a clever and ingenious fraud," declares Dr. Joseph Jastrow, professor of psychology at the University of Wisconsin.

He characterized belief in ghosts as a sort of "verbal intoxication," declaring that people "always elaborate upon stories they hear regarding ghosts and spirits."

N. Y. STATE TO PASS $45,000,000 BONUS

Albany, Jan. 25.—Legislative leaders of both parties decided today to pass at once the soldier bonus amendment, which will authorize the State to bond itself for $45,000,000 for a State gratuity for veterans of the World War.

The Constitutional amendment already has been adopted by one Legislature and it will go to the people for approval at the next election. If the vote is favorable the veterans will get the money next year.

This is the State's second bonus measure, and was prepared last year to take the place of the bonus bill which had been declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals.

MAGGIE CLINE 35 YEARS WED, FRIENDS LEARN

Red Bank, N. J., Jan. 25.—Despite the belief held by all but her very intimate friends that Maggie Cline, famous vaudeville actress, was single, it has become known since reports of her serious illness have been made public that she has been married for more than thirty-five years.

John Ryan, a former cafe owner, of Brooklyn, appeared at the sick bed and neighbors were informed that he was the husband of the "Irish Queen." Maggie met Ryan, it is said, when she was beginning her career in vaudeville. He was then proprietor of a Fulton street cafe. At her request, the marriage was kept secret.

Specialists report that they hold little hope for the actress' recovery.

How Backache and Periodic Pains Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Olean, N. Y.—"Every month my blood would go to my head and I would have such a headache, nose-bleed, backache and pains that I could not do my work. At night I could not get my rest and nothing seemed to do me any good. I read some of your testimonials about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others, so I decided to try it. I had only taken two bottles when I began to be better, and my back did not hurt me nor my head ache. I felt like a new woman. The Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine and I will always recommend it."—Mrs. A. D. EARLS, 830 N. 5th St., Olean, N. Y.

Mrs. Kelsey Adds Her Testimony

Copenhagen, N. Y.—"I read your advertisement in the papers and my husband induced me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to get relief from pains and weakness. I was so weak that I could not walk at times. Now I can do my housework and help my husband out doors, too. I am willing for you to publish this letter."—Mrs. HERBERT KELSEY, R.F.D., Copenhagen, N. ## GOV. SMITH MAY REOPEN PETERS CASE

Albany, Jan. 25.—Governor Smith announced that he has determined to withhold his decision on the petition to reopen the Walter S. Ward murder case pending "certain new developments." He declined to state what their nature might be.

His statement came after a conference with Frederick E. Weeks, former district attorney of Westchester County, and Arthur S. Rowland, present prosecutor. The ex prosecutor and the present district attorney went over the evidence in the case now before the Governor and his counsel.

The Governor's statements were taken to mean there is a possibility he may step into the case of the slaying of Clarence Peters.

To Protest Effectively

Senator Borah is right. "The situation created by French aggression is one in which the United States cannot with honor remain silent."

And the reasons he gives why not are precisely the reasons stated two weeks ago by this newspaper when it said:

The first reason is that in the present unstable state of European affairs a war begun by France may speedily extend all over Europe and then over other parts of the world. In such a war there is no knowing when some outrage upon our neutrality, some flagrant violation of our rights, may involve us in the terrible conflict.

The second reason is that the highest authorized representative that a republic can have—its elected President—gave his public pledge to the defeated nations in the late war that if they would depose their autocratic governments, establish a democracy and lay down their arms, the United States would see to it that in their trustfulness and resultant helplessness they should be treated with exact justice.

This President of the United States then proceeded to forget his plighted word in a pitiful pursuit of personal ambition.

So, unless the United States wishes to have one of its Presidents go down in history as a betrayer of the trust of other nations and a breaker of the faith of this nation it should do something to substantiate the pledge which its President solemnly gave, and then abandoned in the hope of gratifying a mad vanity to be President of the world.

Senator Borah truly points out that a nation's "highest honor and glory in victory is to be just to a fallen foe"; yet today, notwithstanding President Wilson's pledge, which all of our associates in the war at the time underwrote, "We see the German people turned over to the most destructive and ruthless method of militarism, of arbitrary power, and we do not so much as even record our protest.

We should, indeed, protest.

But in order to make the protest 100 per cent. effective we should ask all the peace-loving nations of the world to unite in our protest against France's outrageous attempt to disturb the peace of the world by cruelly oppressing a fallen foe and by sowing the seeds of hatred which will eventually lead to another great war.

To Be Somebody BEAT Somebody

Look at Turkey

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

To get "standing in civilization" beat your enemy thoroughly. A while ago Turks were despised by everybody. They were kicked out of Europe and the Greeks traveled into Asia Minor to kick them some more.

But the Turks beat the Greeks thoroughly, and the whole thing changes.

Civilized nations at Lausanne humbly agree that Turks in their own territory shall have the right to conscript Christians and force them to fight in the Moslem army. You can imagine Mohammed saying to Charlemagne in the realms above: "I get a laugh out of that, Charley."

Charlemagne, you remember, spent a lot of his time marching against Mohammedan infidels, and now he will look down upon Christians carrying Mohammed's green flag, by compulsion.

Ignorance Does Cause War

But the Wolf in Man Does More Than Ignorance

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Elihu Root says the principal cause of war is the IGNORANCE of the people of one nation concerning those of other nations. Ignorance is PART of the cause, not all of it.

No matter how much you educate a wolf, he will still start a fight or gladly join in a fight when it starts.

You must slowly take the wolf out of him by breeding. It takes a long time to change a wolf into a collie—and a collie will fight.

There is a great deal of the wolf left in human beings. Even where different races live together, as in this country, and see and know each other, they still hate each other, merely because they are of different races.

They tar and feather and burn and beat each other.

You might give a perfect college education to every [illegible]ing in the world, and you might let every human [illegible]avel through all of the other countries outside his [illegible]ading a year in each, and still you would have war. [illegible]rouble is in our natures, still so close to the savage.

Professor Shaler of Harvard is correct in his statement that under proper provocation a gathering of one hundred mild and gentle clergymen could be swiftly transformed into a lynching mob.

In fact, most of the burning alive and torturing done on this earth has been done by order of clergymen, with the very best and holiest of intentions.

Assistants Needed

District Attorney O'Brien Should Have Help He Asks for to Care for Growing Business of His Office

District Attorney O'Brien of Suffolk County has asked for four assistants. Those who know Mr. O'Brien know that he would not ask for these assistants if he did not need them. He is not a politician. He has not been in politics. He is not in his office for the benefit of politicians. He is not trying to increase the number of assistants in order to take care of the lame ducks. The business of his office is growing. His methods tend to make it grow, and they are methods which we ought to encourage. They do not increase the number of criminals, but they do increase the amount of time devoted to each case.

We hope that the Legislature grants him an appropriation for this increase.

WINIFRED BLACK ON SOULS

By Winifred Black

DEAR me, they're after us again—the men!

What in the world would they do if they didn't have women to laugh at, and to tease and to "study" and to criticize?

We are stupid and unprogressive and too much interested in the daily humdrum of the home. We're too literal and too serious and too narrow-minded.

We're vain. We think too much about our complexions and our figures and our hair—look at the way a man has to wait for every one of us when he's going to take us to the theatre, or somewhere else!

Or else we're careless and down-at-the-heels and not smart and well groomed enough to suit the modern man.

And now we—ah, we have no souls.

Imagine a woman of sense and character and position getting up at a public dinner and owlishly declaring that men have no souls.

Doubtless there isn't a woman living who hasn't made up her mind half a dozen times at some half-dozen or so periods in her life that men never had, haven't now and never will have even the rudiments of souls.

But she has sense enough to keep her mood to herself and not inflict the world with it, and by and by she gets over it.

Cross about it?

No, indeed!

Why should we be cross?

Alas for the day when men stop criticizing us sisters.

We'll know, then, that they've stopped thinking about us, and that will be for both men and us a sad and sorry day.

British Ship to Carry 20 Planes

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Two new English aircraft carriers of a completely novel design shortly are to be placed in commission with the British fleet.

One of these ships was specially designed by the British Admiralty and is claimed to be the biggest ship of its kind in the world, embodying all the latest landing and launching improvements.

The largest of the two, the Eagle, is of 26,200 tons displacement and is fitted with two hangars, which will accommodate more than twenty aeroplanes.

Subway Crush

Editor Boston American:

I am not a civil engineer or a subway builder. But I think someone showed terrible lack of common sense when the Park street station of the Cambridge tunnel was built. Cars from South Boston, for instance, drop off hundreds of passengers from each train during the rush hours. Most of the number want to get cars on the upper level, at the old subway station.

And how can they get from one to the other? Up a narrow stairway, just wide enough to accommodate a double line. I would like to see those who designed this part of the station caught in a few of the jams there every day. It is a wonder to me someone is not badly trampled on. It is a shame that the public has to suffer because of someone's shortsightedness.

J. B. JEFFERSON.

Brighton.

Maggie and Jiggs

Editor Boston American:

There is nothing I enjoy more after the day's labor than your funny pages, and I am writing to ask if it couldn't be arranged so that Maggie and Jiggs could come back to the United States and show us how they handle the coal situation during the shortage? It would be a great chance for some real fun. Also fix it for a return of Jerry's brother Herman who was such a master in the use of slang.

FRANK A. DUFFEE.

THE HELPING HAND

Do Not Inclose Stamps. Letters Will Not Be Answered Personally

Angora Cat

Editor Helping Hand:

I would very much like to have the Angora cat Mrs. S. J. T. has. I can give it a good home, as I love cats, and will also get J. L. M. a pair of rubber boots if I knew the size or will send $5 to him and he can get them.

MRS. C. K. S.

ED. NOTE—Sorry, but you are too late. Everybody in eastern Massachusetts and a few in other States asked for the kitten. Many thanks for the offer to J. L. M., but the helping hand has already been extended to him. There will be many other chances to do good.

Piano Rolls

Editor Helping Hand:

Has anyone some player-piano rolls they would be willing to sell cheap? Perhaps they are tired of some old ones.

MRS. G. J. T.

Demand for Skates

Editor Helping Hand:

I would like the pair of shoe skates that were offered in your column. I am poor and cannot afford a pair, although I enjoy the sport of skating.

M. F.

ED. NOTE — First we were short on skates. Then we were long on them when several kind people offered some. Now that about a dozen have asked for a pair we are short on them again.

Radio Set

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a shut-in, had a paralytic shock and am confined to the house, unable to do anything. I would be glad to hear from anyone who has a radio set in good condition. I would like the use of one for a time to drive away the monotony. Am willing to give something for the use of it.

To Complete Radio Set

Editor Helping Hand:

I have made a radio set and have everything but the head set. I wonder if anyone has one they do not want. I am a disabled veteran, and have been sick a long time and not able to go out.

VET.

Dancing Slippers

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a little girl, eight years old, and I would like to know if anyone has a pair of toe-dancing slippers that they can give me. I wear a size 11 shoe. My daddy has been sick and he cannot buy them for me.

EMMA.

Wants a Dog

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a son who is almost two years old who likes dogs so much that when he sees one on the street he begins to call him. I am not looking for a special dog, but any kind of a pup will do. I am not working very steadily and am not able to get him one.

Carriage or Stroller

Editor Helping Hand:

Would like to know if any of your readers have or know of anyone who has a twin carriage or stroller they would give to me, as I have five small children and cannot afford to buy one. I would be more than grateful for it.

MRS. J. C.

WORDS FROM THE LIPS OF WISE MEN

WE chase the ideal and miss the real.

• • •

Punctuality is the soul of business.

• • •

If nobody takes notice of our faults we easily forget them ourselves.

• • •

One foolish act may undo a man, and a timely one make his fortune.

• • •

Servants will not be diligent where the master's negligent.

• • •

The first step to a good name is a good life, and the next is good behavior.

• • •

Posperity makes friends and adversity tries them.

• • •

One of the most important, but one of the most difficult things for a powerful mind, is to be its own master.

• • •

There is no despotism like that of the many-headed monster—the mob.

• • •

Many books are to be tasted, and some few to be chewed and digested.

World's Richest Butler

LONDON, Jan. 24.—John D. Rockefeller may cling to his laurels as the world's richest man, but John Hunter Coutts will go down to posterity as the world's richest butler.

Coutts, during a long career of "butling," twenty years of which were served in the service of Lord Ribblesdale, amassed a fortune of thirteen thousand pounds, or about $60,000, at present rates of exchange. His will, recently probated, showed he was the possessor of mortgages valued at about $15,000, war bonds worth $40,000, with cash and other assets totalling about $6,000.

Some less fortunate British butlers are wondering how John Hunter "got that way." They point out that, to have amassed such a fortune through saving, Coutts would have had to lay by an average of about $60 per week for twenty years. The conviction lurks in the minds of Coutts' contemporaries that he must have "had a knack" of multiplying his savings by investment.

SEN. CAPPER TILTS HIS LANCE AT DIVORCE LAWS

By Herbert Kaufman

THE strangest divorce case of the year is being tried in Detroit. A fifteen-year-old boy refuses to support his wife—as if a child of that age could provide for a home.

Senator Capper introduced a new constitutional amendment yesterday to prevent such farces—and tragedies.

He aims to federalize our promiscuous and largely incompetent marriage and divorce laws.

The act will be opposed by some as too drastic; others will resent its liberality.

Watchdogs of State sovereignty are sure to organize a powerful opposition. Gretna Greens and divorce centres will certainly find no occasion to chirp M. Coue's cheerful little ditty as they read the list of intended regulations. And the churches will have a decided say in the matter.

Protection for Unborn Citizens

Something should be, must be, done to end the ridiculous situation which both recognizes a husband and wife and denies their status within the borders of the same country.

Something must and shall be done to check the mating and breeding of morons, epileptics and other defectives. Unborn citizens have definite rights—the right to sound bodies, the right to clean blood, the right to sanity.

These rights Capper undertakes to protect.

If anything, he undertakes too much—at one swoop.

Siamese twin bills are self-handicapped. Shotgun legislation—and here's an example—scatters too widely and hits in too many places easily to accomplish its object. As our friend from Kansas will find when the debates begin.

Labor Invades the Banking Field

Capital and labor will now have a fair chance to compare causes under unprecedented auspices. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has bought a big block of Empire Trust Company stock.

Warren S. Stone and associates join the directors.

One of the bank officials evinces surprise at the capacities of his new confreres.

There's nothing surprising about the competence of men who direct organizations with 90,000 members. On the contrary, it would be strange to discover an inferior intelligence managing the affairs of a huge concern.

Mr. Stone's closer acquaintance with the technique of finance promises to have a distinct effect upon future labor problems. And possibly on our financial methods.

Mr. Mellon Sees a Surplus

Surgeon-General Dawes will be pleased to note that his Washington operations have quite improved the health of national finances.

Treasury officials, examining budgets for the fiscal year, behold a surplus in the offing—a small surplus. Between Hell-and-Mariaring and back tax collections to the tune of eighty-seven millions, government receipts over a twelve-month period, will a little better than equal expenditures.

Weary incomes join in the warning. We need any spare change in Uncle Sam's pocket to ransom us from tax slavery.

They're Asking for It

Here's some ugly news. The coal people seem prepared to furnish fuel for resentment, even if they don't fill furnace bins.

American dealers are selling anthracite in Canada at $2 to $4 per ton less than we are privileged to buy it. That's sheer stupidity. And further convinces a considerable body of voters—not Socialists, either—that Congress must eventually seize the mines and operate them for public benefit.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts tells us that coal of the poorest quality is selling in Lynn at $18 and $22 a ton. Tuesday he presented a petition from indignant Boston demanding an embargo on foreign shipments until domestic needs are satisfied.

Mine operators may recollect that Boston was het up on another occasion. Over some tea shipments. The shippers lost a considerable piece of property shortly thereafter.

But words for the wise are wasted on fools.

Wishing Carpets and Aeroplanes

From Boston to Bagdad is a long journey. Haroun Al Raschid might have made it in twelve months. At the rate Sir Percy Fox, High Commissioner of Irak, is traveling to London, it would take him a week.

Arabian legend celebrates the Wishing Carpet and the Slaves of the Lamp. Modern folk, like Sir Percy, ride on hundred-miles-an-hour airships and command the slaves of the button to snatch lightning from the air and hurl speech across whole continents, and hew and dig for them.

The Sons of Sheba Arrive

Sheba found no such wonders at the court of Solomon as you have in your humble home.

Sheba dwelt in Abyssinia. Now Abyssinia dwells here. Three Princes of the reigning dynasty, which reaches back beyond Christ and vaunts of ancient Christianity, have reached Chicago to learn the ways and wherefores of a western civilization.

So time shifts the might of nations.

Theirs was a learned land when this was a stretch of bison herds and the home of naked savages.

We Bungle Wonderfully, Too

Washington recalls the visit of other Abyssinians, toward the end of the great war. Washington unfortunately didn't recall its ethnology on the particular occasion. Because these folk were black, diplomats and others in high places treated them like black men. Proud Caucasians that they were, legates from out the mystic past, come bearing gifts as Sheba came to Jerusalem. Ivory and lordly vestments and jeweled weapons to lay at the feet of the modern King of Kings.

If memory is correct, our enlightened government shipped them out of town and planned a dinner at a New York club, members of which, insisting on the house rules, refused to permit its use for negroes.

We bungle wonderfully, too.
